Herman Stone's wife Connie is cheating on him. They'd all seen her with Lyle Cary. So when she is arrested in Cary's apartment drunk and nude with his murdered body on the bed, they had obviously just shared. They all assume she's guilty. Except of course for Stone. The husband may be the last to know, but Connie claims she is innocent. She's never even met Cary, much less killed him. It's almost more than Stone can believe. But in trying to prove her innocence, he soon finds himself up against not only the witnesses but the entire police force. NAKED FURY. There's been a fatal hit and run in the poor part of town. And now the only witness has been beaten to death as well. Big Dan Malloy runs this part of town and makes it his business to take care of his people. So he starts to investigate the deaths. It all points to a man in a large dark blue car. But the official police report is now saying it was a red coupe driven by a woman, which can only mean that someone has fingered Katie Malloy's girl. Meanwhile, Malloy is working hard on an election that should bring some real change to his part of town. But with so much on the line, who can he really trust? MURDER ON THE SIDE. Larry Hanson should have been a successful engineer instead of the glorified accountant he is. Now in his mid 40s, he has grown bored with his job, his wife, and his secretary. Wanda calls one evening and asks for his help. Her ex-boyfriend, just released from prison, had been trying to drunkenly rape her. She hit him with a lamp and thinks she killed him. Hanson finds the young man unconscious and takes him away, dropping him at a nearby park. Grateful, Wanda offers herself to Hanson. The next morning he feels like a new man. Then he reads the morning paper: Wanda's boyfriend was found dead in the park, murdered. And Holden is the most likely suspect. Murder! Murder!! Murder!!! Frances and Richard Lockridge, 1956
