

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a vast, flat, arid landscape, likely a desert or steppe. The ground is dry and brownish-yellow, with sparse, low-lying vegetation. The horizon is straight and distant. The sky above is filled with soft, white and grey clouds, creating a dramatic and somewhat somber atmosphere.

Resurgence Of Central Asia Islam Or Nationalism:

The Resurgence of Central Asia Ahmed Rashid, 2017-08-29 A seminal introduction to the rise of Central Asia following the collapse of Tsarist Russia this book has been out of print for two decades and is now more relevant than ever. The Resurgence of Central Asia is Ahmed Rashid's seminal study of the states that emerged in the aftermath of the breakup of the Soviet Union: Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan. All have Muslim majorities and ancient histories but are otherwise very different. Rashid's book, now with a new introduction by the author examining some of the crucial political developments since its first publication in 1994, provides an entry to this little-known but geopolitically important region. Rashid gives a history of each country including its incorporation into Tsarist Russia to the present day, provides basic socioeconomic information, and explains the diverse political situations. He focuses primarily on the underlying issues confronting these societies: the legacy of Soviet rule, ethnic tensions, the position of women, the future of Islam, the question of nuclear proliferation, and the fundamental choices over economic strategy, political system, and external orientation that lie ahead.

Central Asia and the Rise of Normative Powers Emilian Kavalski, 2012-10-15 This book offers a unique analytical investigation of the international politics of the EU, China, and India in the context of their security strategies in Central Asia. It shows how the interaction between these three actors is likely to change the frameworks and practices of international relations. This is studied through their interactions with central Asia using the framework of normative powers and the concept of regional security governance. Briefly, a normative power shapes a target state's attitudes and perceptions as it internalizes and adopts the perspectives of the normative power as the norm. The work comparatively studies the dynamics that have allowed Beijing, Brussels, and New Delhi to articulate security mechanisms in Central Asia and become rising normative powers. This innovative study does not aim to catalog foreign policies but to uncover the dominant perceptions, cognitive structures, and practices that guide these actors' regional agency as exemplified through the context of Central Asia. It will be an essential resource for anyone studying international relations, international relations theory, and foreign policy analysis.

Islam, Society, and Politics in Central Asia Pauline Jones, 2017-07-20 During the 1990s there was a general consensus that Central Asia was witnessing an Islamic revival after independence and that this occurrence would follow similar events throughout the Islamic world in the prior two decades, which had negative effects on both social and political development. Twenty years later we are still struggling to fully understand the transformation of Islam in a region that evolved through a complex and dynamic process involving diversity in belief and practice, religious authority, and political intervention. This volume seeks to shed light on these crucial questions by bringing together an international group of scholars to offer a fresh perspective on Central Asian states and societies. The chapters provide analysis through four distinct categories: the everyday practice of Islam across local communities; state policies toward Islam, focusing on attempts to regulate public and private practice through cultural, legal, and political institutions; and how these differ from Soviet policies.

how religious actors influence communities in the practice of Islam state policies towards the religion and subsequent communal responses to state regulations and how knowledge of and interaction with the larger Islamic world is shaping Central Asia's current Islamic revival and state responses. The contributors, a multidisciplinary and international group of leading scholars, develop fresh insights that both corroborate and contradict findings from previous research while also highlighting the problem of making any generalizations about Islam in individual states or the region. As such, this volume provides new and impactful analysis for scholars, students, and policy makers concerned with Central Asia.

The Transformation of Central Asia Pauline Jones Luong, 2018-08-06. With the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991, former Communist Party leaders in Central Asia were faced with the daunting task of building states where they previously had not existed. Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan. Their task was complicated by the institutional and ideological legacy of the Soviet system as well as by a more actively engaged international community. These nascent states inherited a set of institutions that included bloated bureaucracies, centralized economic planning, and patronage networks. Some of these institutions survived; others have mutated, and new institutions have been created. Experts on Central Asia here examine the emerging relationship between state actors and social forces in the region. Through the prism of local institutions, the authors reassess both our understanding of Central Asia and of the state-building process more broadly. They scrutinize a wide array of institutional actors ranging from regional governments and neighborhood committees to transnational and non-governmental organizations. With original empirical research and theoretical insight, the volume's contributors illuminate an obscure but resource-rich and strategically significant region.

Central Asia in Focus Lydia M. Buyers, 2003. Central Asia in Focus: Political Economic Issues.

The New Silk Road Diplomacy Hasan H. Karrar, 2010-07-01. With the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991, independent states such as Kazakhstan sprang up along China's western frontier. Suddenly, Beijing was forced to confront internal challenges to its authority at its border as well as international competition for energy and authority in Central Asia. Hasan Karrar traces how China cooperated with Russia and the Central Asian republics to stabilize the region, facilitate commerce, and build an energy infrastructure to import the region's oil. While China's gradualist approach to Central Asia prioritized multilateral diplomacy, it also brought Beijing into direct competition with the United States, which views Central Asia as vital to its strategic interests.

Islam Outside the Arab World Ingvar Svanberg, David Westerlund, 2012-12-06. Today, about 85 per cent of the world population of Muslims live in areas outside the Arab world, and due to population growth, missionary endeavours, and migration, the number of Muslims in these areas is rising rapidly. This volume presents the spread and character of Islam in many non-Arab countries, focusing particularly on the contemporary situation. The book deals with the great variety and complexity that characterize Islam outside the Arab world, with Sufism, the predominant form of Islam in most non-Arab Muslim countries, and with the growing significance of Islamism, which challenges secularism and Sufi forms of Islam.

Landau,Barbara Kellner-Heinkele,2011-12-18 Nationalist leaders in the former Soviet states strive for national identity in both the political and cultural domains Their language policies contend with Russian speaking intelligentsias numerous ethnic minorities and sizeable Russian communities backed by the Russian Federation all presenting major challenges to facing the legacy of Soviet rule Drawing on many years of research interviews with educators and officials and visits to the region Barbara Kellner Heinkele and Jacob M Landau explore the politics of language and its intersection with identity in Azerbaijan Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan With special attention to language education in schools and universities within each state and debates over bilingualism versus multilingualism their insights offer researchers of politics linguistics and Central Asian studies a comprehensive account of a highly politicised debate Film and Identity in Kazakhstan Rico Isaacs,2018-02-07 Cinema and nationalism are two fundamentally modern phenomena but how have films shaped our understanding of the creation the imagining of Central Asian nations Here Rico Isaacs uses cinema as an analytical lens to explore how the Kazakh national identity has been constructed and contested Drawing on an analysis of Kazakh films from the last century and featuring new interviews with directors and critics involved in the Central Asian film industry his book traces the construction of nationalism within Kazakh cinema from the country's inception as a Soviet Republic to a modern independent nation Isaacs identifies four narratives since the collapse of the Soviet Union a warrior like ethnic narrative rooted in the 18th Century struggles against the Mongolian Oirat tribes a civic inspired narrative cemented in the Stalinist deportations of the 1930s and 40s a religious narrative founded within the mystic and philosophical religion of Tengrism and the cult of the Sky God and a socio economic narrative which roots Kazakh nationhood and identity in contemporary social divisions the lived day to day experiences of ordinary citizens and the struggles they face with authority These last two tropes demonstrate how cinema has emerged as a site of dissent against the country's authoritarian regime under President Nazarbayev Film and Identity in Kazakhstan advances our understanding of Kazakhstan and nationalism by demonstrating the multiple and inessential character of each and illustrates the important role of cinema in contesting political power in the post Soviet space

POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC RELATIONS BETWEEN IRAN AND CENTRAL ASIAN STATES , 1991-2010 Dr. Rashmi Tiwari, 2024-09-25 During the post cold war era a power vacuum has been created in Central Asia The great powers like United States Russia China and European Union want to exert their own influence in the region to meet their geo strategic interests The other countries like Iran Turkey Pakistan India and Saudi Arabia also want to strengthen their historical cultural linguistic economic and political relations with the Central Asian States The oil and natural gas rich Central Asian States are a great source of attraction for the developed world in general and United States and Russia in particular Iran sharing a long border with Turkmenistan sea route with Kazakhstan and linguistic ties with Tajikistan has a comparative advantage in bringing the Central Asian States in its own fold The Central Asian Republics emerged as independent sovereign countries in December 1991 as a result of Soviet Union disintegration Central Asia has inappropriately been called Inmost Asia or Innermost Asia but in fact Central Asia is not Inmost Asia or Innermost Asia it is just Central Asia It lies at the heart of Eurasian continent completely land locked and geographically surrounded by Iran and Afghanistan in the south Russia in the north China in the east and the Eastern Europe in the west The Caucasus stands on the other side of the Caspian Sea which is situated in the western part of Central Asia comprising the three countries of Azerbaijan Armenia and Georgia Central Asian Republics CARs have had geographical historical social and cultural linkages with Iran In fact these republics were part of imperial Iranian state Due to its geostrategic location of Central Asia and its adjoining region in pre industrial times Iran was a land bridge between inner South and East Asia on the one hand and Europe on the other hand In the wake of the industrial revolution Iran was drawn into the European imperialists power game in Central Asia 1 Iran is the eighteenth largest country in the world with an area of 1 648 000 km square Its borders are with Azerbaijan to the North West the Caspian Sea to the North Turkmenistan to the North East Pakistan to the East Turkey and Iraq to the West and finally the waters of the Persian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman
