The Global Politics of Jazz in the Twentieth Century Yoshiomi Saito, 2019-08-28 From the mid 1950s to the late 1970s jazz was harnessed as America s sonic weapon to promote an image to the world of a free and democratic America Dizzy Gillespie Dave Brubeck Duke Ellington and other well known jazz musicians were sent around the world including to an array of Communist countries as jazz ambassadors in order to mitigate the negative image associated with domestic racial problems While many non Americans embraced the Americanism behind this jazz diplomacy without question others criticized American domestic and foreign policies while still appreciating jazz thus jazz despite its popularity also became a medium for expressing anti Americanism This book examines the development of jazz outside America including across diverse historical periods and geographies shedding light on the effectiveness of jazz as an instrument of state power within a global political context Saito examines jazz across a wide range of regions including America Europe Japan and Communist countries His research also draws heavily upon a variety of sources primary as well as secondary which are accessible in these diverse countries all had their unique and culturally specific domestic jazz scenes but also interacted with each other in an interesting dimension of early globalization This comparative analysis on the range of unique jazz scenes and cultures offers a detailed understanding as to how jazz has been interpreted in various ways according to the changing contexts of politics and society around it often providing a basis for criticizing America itself Furthering our appreciation of the organic relationship between jazz and global politics Saito reconsiders the uniqueness of jazz as an exclusively American music This book will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations the history of popular music and global politics The Introduction of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
