scholars contend that in the primordial religions the Great Mother was honored as the primary creative force giving birth to the world granting fertility to both crops and humans and ruling supreme over her family pantheon The peaceful matriarchal farming societies that worshipped her were eventually wiped out or subjugated by nomadic patriarchal warrior tribes such as the early Hebrews who brought their male God to overthrow the Great Mother the first step in the creation and perpetuation of a brutal male dominated society and its attendant oppression and degradation of women In The Faces of the Goddess Lotte Motz sets out to test this hypothesis by examining the real female deities of early human cultures She finds no trace of the Great Mother in their myths or in their worship From the Eskimos of the arctic wasteland whose harsh life even today most closely mirrors the earliest hunter gatherers to the rich cultures of the sunny Fertile Crescent and the islands of Japan Motz looks at a wide range of goddesses who are called Mother or who give birth in their myths She finds that these goddesses have varying origins as ancestor deities animal protectors and other divinities rather than stemming from a common Mother Goddess archetype For instance Sedna the powerful goddess whose chopped off fingers became the seals and fish that were the Eskimos chief source of food had nothing to do with human fertility Indeed human motherhood was held in such low esteem that Eskimo women were forced to give birth completely alone with no human companionship and no helpful deities of childbirth Likewise while various Mexican goddesses ruled over healing women s crafts motherhood and childbirth and functioned as tribal protectors or divine ancestors none of them either embodied the earth itself or granted fertility to the crops for that the Mexicans looked to the male gods of maize and of rain Nor were the rituals of these goddesses nurturing or peaceful The goddess Cihuacoatl who nurtured the creator god Quetzalcoatl and helped him create humanity was worshipped with human sacrifices who were pushed into a fire removed while still alive and their hearts were cut out And Motz closely examines the Anatolian goddess Cybele the Magna Mater most often cited as an example of a powerful mother goddess Hers were the last of the great pagan mysteries of the Mediterranean civilizations to fall before Christianity But Cybele herself never gives birth nor does she concern herself with aiding women in childbirth or childrearing She is not herself a mother and the male character figuring most prominently in her myths is Attis her chaste companion Tellingly Cybele s priests dedicate themselves to her by castrating themselves thus mimicking Attis s death a very odd way to venerate a goddess of fertility To depict these earlier goddesses as peaceful and nurturing mothers as is often done is to deny them their own complex and sophisticated nature as beings who were often violent and vengeful delighting in sacrifice or who reveled in their eroticism and were worshipped as harlots The idea of a nurturing Mother Goddess is very powerful In this challenging book however Motz shows that She is a product of our own age not of earlier ones By discarding this simplistic and worn out paradigm we can open the door to a new way of thinking about feminine spirituality and religious experience
