The late nineteenth century was a crucial period for the development of German fiction. Political unification and industrialization were accompanied by the rise of a mass market for German literature and with it the beginnings of the German bestseller. Offering escape, romance or adventure as well as insights into the modern world, nineteenth century bestsellers often captured the imagination of readers well into the twentieth century and beyond. However, many have been neglected by scholars. This volume offers new readings of literary realism by focusing not on the accepted intellectual canon but on commercially successful fiction in its material and social contexts. It investigates bestsellers from writers such as Freytag, Dahn, Jensen, Raabe, Viebig, Stifter, Auerbach, Storm, Mühlhausen, Marlitt, Suttner and Thomas Mann. The contributions examine the aesthetic strategies that make the works such a success and writers' attempts to appeal simultaneously on different levels to different readers. Writers tried to find freedom and be innovative while also accommodating the expectations of publishers and the marketplace. This volume sheds light on the important effect of the mass market on the writing, not just of popular works but of German prose fiction on all levels.

Lenaus sämtliche Werke in vier Bänden: Faust ; Savonarola Nicolaus Lenau, 1854 The Jewish Self-Portrait in European and American Literature Hans-Jürgen Schrader, Elliott M. Simon, Charlotte Wardi, 2011-07-22

The articles in this collection originated from an international symposium at the University of Haifa and centre around a major topic in German European and American literature: the way in which Jewish self-definition, both positive and negative, has materialized as a product of the tensions between secular culture and society on the one hand and Jewish tradition and religion on the other. The broad range of authors, most of them of German speaking origin, necessarily results in an almost equally broad range of answers to this central question. The volume is dedicated to the memory of the Israeli literary scholar Chaim Shoham.
