Sitomer, 2018-12-04 Alan Lawrence Sitomer writes a compelling story of piecing together a life after a devastating loss when the threat of violence lurks at every step When Teddy Anderson's little sister Tina is gunned down randomly in a drive by shooting the gangstas who rule the streets in the Anderson family's rapidly deteriorating neighborhood dismiss the incident as just another case of wrong place wrong time According to gangsta logic Tina doesn't even count as a statistic After his elaborately laid plans for revenge against his sister's killer are foiled by the cops Teddy soon finds himself in and then out of prison on house arrest into the hands of Officer Mariana Diaz the smart tough probation officer assigned to oversee his endless hours of community service As part of the innovative rehabilitation program Diaz runs Teddy is assigned to tutor Micah a twelve year old orphan and would be gansta As Teddy goes through the motions of complying with the terms of his probation Diaz has no idea that he is using his genius level computer hacker skills to plot his final vengeance and to defraud the state education system of hundreds of thousands of dollars But even though Teddy thinks he knows it all he fails to see how Micah's desperate need for love and trust just might have the power not only to pierce all Teddy's defenses but to save his family Shirley's Story: From Fear in Poland to Freedom in America, Scruffy Paul Gallico, 1962 There is a superstition that if the Barbary Apes leave Gibraltar the English will also leave This story is set in Gibraltar at the start of the Second World War and is the story of the efforts required to keep the apes in Gibraltar The major problem is an ape called Harold a k a Scruffy who is appallingly behaved and who does his best to bring down the wrath of officialdom on all the apes and their keepers Riddles of the Sphinx Kimberly Lamm, 2025-06-12 A classic of feminist avant garde cinema Laura Mulvey and Peter Wollen's Riddles of the Sphinx 1977 follows the life of Louise Dinah Stabb a white middle class woman living in London in the 1970s as she confronts the complex politics of motherhood domestic labour and work With a kaleidoscopic array of cinematic techniques and poetic devices the film charts Louise's process as she questions her place within white patriarchal culture and finds her voice within the burgeoning Women's Liberation Movement. Reading Riddles as an essay film, Kimberly Lamm explores how it utilises voice sound and writing to challenge Hollywood's dominant images of women and to portray maternal care as a legitimate form of work rich in aesthetic pleasures and feminist possibilities. She examines the voice of the Sphinx and connecting it to feminism's engagement with psychoanalysis argues that Mulvey and Wollen's film works through long histories of patriarchal viewing practices and creates conditions in which the full range of women's voices can be listened to, heard and valued. Lamm explores how Riddles, the second collaboration between Mulvey and Wollen, drew inspiration from Wollen's influential work on counter cinema and Mulvey's foundational writing on the male gaze.

Entitled Janelle Scott, 2019-02-25 Meredith Cunningham had led a charmed life and been financially supported by her parents through private school, University and well into adulthood. She had established herself as a successful businesswoman who expected everyone to do what she wanted. This had worked quite well for her until her parents, Ken and Margaret, made a life-changing decision. They had their property on the market and the price would be sufficient to buy a luxury motor home in which to travel around Australia. They felt it was time they did what they wanted to do, not what their daughter thought they should. The idea of supporting herself financially was not attractive to Meredith and she set out to find someone who would keep her in the manner she thought she deserved. Foster Browne was chosen and pursued by her because he was good looking, successful, and they made a handsome couple who would be featured in the social pages. Foster did not know the real Meredith and was dazzled by her sophistication and immaculate presentation. Her relentless spending caused him great distress and he made a decision that would end this relationship. Meredith then found herself facing a lifestyle she had not even known existed, nor did she have the skills to cope with her new reality.
