The Quattro Cento Adrian Stokes,2002 Adrian Stokes 1902 1972 was a British painter and author whose writings on art have been allowed to go out of print despite their impact on Modernism and ongoing acclaim for their beauty and intellectual acuity Two of his most influential books The Quattro Cento of 1932 and Stones of Rimini of 1934 are brought together for the first time in this new volume which includes all their original illustrations This new edition also provides a foreword by Stephen Bann and introductions by David Carrier and Stephen Kite that place Stokes's masterworks in the context of early twentieth century culture and discuss their structure and relevance to today's experience of art and architecture. Written as parts of an incomplete trilogy The Quattro Cento and Stones of Rimini mark a crossroads in the transition from late Victorian to Modernist conceptions of art especially sculpture and architecture. Stokes continued even extended John Ruskin's and Walter Pater's belief that art is essential to the individual's proper psychological development but wove their teaching into a new aesthetic shaped by his analysis with Melanie Klein and recent innovations in literature, dance and the visual arts. Few writers have been able to invoke the material presence of works of art in the way Stokes does in The Quattro Cento and Stones of Rimini. They combine travel writing with acts of looking spun out so as to reinterpret the imposing legacy of the Italian Renaissance through an aesthetic of the direct carving of stone which has parallels in the sculpture of Henry Moore and Barbara Hepworth but was for Stokes the discovery of artists in fifteenth century Italy. To his way of thinking there then arose a realization that the materials of art were the actual objects of inspiration, the stocks for the deepest fantasies. During the Renaissance, Stokes maintained, stone accordingly blossomed into sculpture and buildings.

Primal Robin Baker, 2009-11-10. Presumed dead a group of undergraduate students who go missing on a deserted Pacific island emerge one year later in two groups of ragged and naked survivors. All but one of the surviving women have conceived and two students plus their professor are said to have died. In the glare of the world's media every survivor sticks to the same unconvincing version of events. Piece by piece the narrator examines the evidence and conducts interviews with the survivors to work out exactly what happened on the island during that year. Slowly a disturbing picture emerges of feral humans driven by rivalry and sexual tension, a Lord of the Flies scenario for adults that suspiciously seems to test the dead professor's theory that by nature people are no different from apes in the wild. SOMA 2013.

States of Micronesia's Engagement with the Outside World Gonzaga Puas, 2021-09-28. This study addresses the neglected history of the people of the Federated States of Micronesia's FSM engagement with the outside world. Situated in the northwest Pacific, FSM's strategic location has led to four colonial rulers. Histories of FSM to date have been largely written by sympathetic outsiders. Indigenous perspectives of FSM history have been largely absent from the main corpus of historical literature. A new generation of Micronesian scholars are starting to write their own history from Micronesian perspectives and using Micronesian forms of history. This book argues that Micronesians have been dealing successfully with the outside world throughout the colonial era in ways colonial authorities were often unaware of. This argument is sustained by examination of oral histories, secondary sources, interviews, field research and the personal experience of a person raised in the Mortlock Islands of Chuuk State. It reconstructs how Micronesian internal processes for social stability and mutual support endured rather than succumbing to the different waves of colonisation. This study argues that colonisation did not destroy Micronesian cultures and identities but that Micronesians recontextualised the changing conditions to suit their own circumstances Their success rested on the indigenous doctrines of adaptation assimilation and accommodation deeply rooted in the kinship doctrine of eaea fengen sharing and alilis fengen assisting each other These values pervade the Constitution of the FSM which formally defines the modern identity of its indigenous peoples reasserting and perpetuating Micronesian values and future continuity

Throughout the South Pacific notions of culture and development are very much alive in political debate the media sermons and endless discussions amongst villagers and the urban lites even in policy reports Often the terms are counterposed and development along with economic rationality good governance and progress is set against culture or custom tradition and identity The decay of custom and impoverishment of culture are often seen as wrought by development while failures of development are haunted by the notion that they are due somehow to the darker irrational influences of culture The problem is to resolve the contradictions between them so as to achieve the greater good access to material goods welfare and amenities modern life without the sacrifice of the traditional values and institutions that provide material security and sustain diverse social identities Resolution is sought in this book by a number of leading writers from the South Pacific including Langi Kavaliku Epeli Hau ofa Marshall Sahlins Malama Meleisea Joeli Veitayaki and Tarcisius Tara Kabutaulaka The volume is brought together for UNESCO by Antony Hooper Professor Emeritus at the University of Auckland UNESCO experts include Richard Engelhardt Langi Kavaliku Russell Marshall Malama Meleisea Edna Tait and Mali Voi
