

Dwellers in the temperate zones of the northern hemisphere generally think of the seasons as the more or less constant pattern in which spring follows winter and summer follows spring. But the pattern is etched far more deeply into our lives and environments. The unceasing movement of the earth, a planet turning on its axis, orbiting around the sun and encircled by the moon sets up a climatic pattern which, in turn, evokes a corresponding rhythmic response from every living thing. Among live organisms man is unique in being able to deal with changes in his habitat by ingenuity rather than by any of the remarkable escape methods found in animal life, like migration, hibernation, colour change and complex breeding cycles. Yet even he is powerless before the explosive energy of 'seasonal' events like flood, avalanche and bush fire.

Anthony Smith treats his theme in three parts: the physical effects of the earth's position in the solar system; the variety of seasonal change in all the different regions of the earth; the adaptive rhythms of animal and plant life and the enigmatic 'biological clock'.

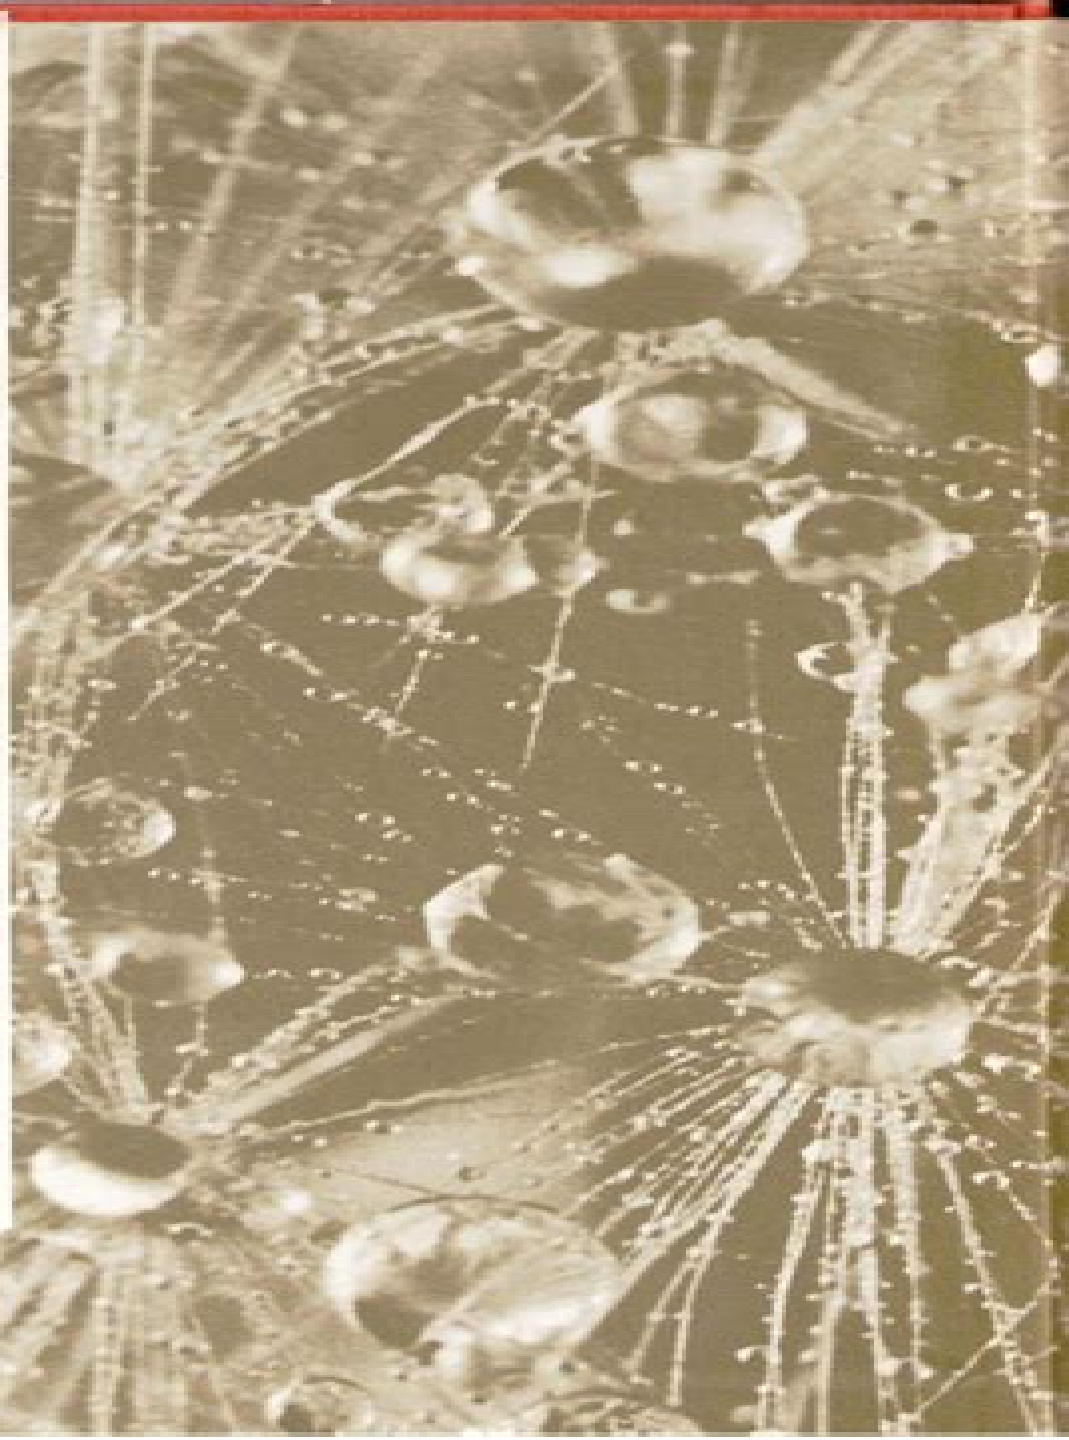

To complement the text an outstanding documentary of beautiful photographs has been assembled, including items like the hibernating Poorwill, the only bird observed in hibernation, migrating Monarch butterflies, the mandrill in the colours of sexual display, the Arctic spring, the life of man in regions of permanent frost, earthquake, monsoon floods and many other aspects of seasonal activity on earth, captured in black and white and full colour. Diagrams and maps in the text chart these worldwide phenomena for easy reference.
