Office of Economic Development,1972 Seattle Department of Community Development Downtown Projects Records Seattle (Wash.). Department of Community Development,1970 Correspondence maps memoranda plans photographs reports and other material relating to five major projects and a number of miscellaneous projects in downtown Seattle The five major projects were the City Hall Project the rejuvenation of the Denny Regrade area the repurposing of the Lake Union Steam Plant projects on the site of the former Normandie Apartments including Horizon House and Freeway Park and the North Kingdome and Union Station Corridor Study Miscellaneous projects include downtown parking and transit issues the Seattle Art Museum and the waterfront streetcar The Forging of a Black Community Quintard Taylor,1994 Asians rather than blacks were Seattle s largest racial minority until World War II Their presence limited African American employment and housing opportunities by drawing blacks into intense competition with the city s Chinese Japanese and Filipino populations Yet the virulent racism of the 1890 1940 era usually directed against blacks in urban communities was diffused among Seattle s four nonwhite groups Consequently Asians and blacks admittedly uneasy neighbors became partners in coalitions challenging racial restrictions while remaining competitors for housing and jobs Taylor explores the intersection of race and class in a city with a decidedly liberal and at times radical political culture He finds that while local blacks operated in a racial environment that allowed relatively open social interaction at the same time they were subject to restricted employment opportunities preventing rapid growth of the African American population
