Angel, Holly Bell, Julie Beausoleil, Laura Lein, 2012-03-19 Neither government programs nor massive charitable efforts responded adequately to the human crisis that was Hurricane Katrina In this study the authors use extensive interviews with Katrina evacuees and reports from service providers to identify what helped or hindered the reestablishment of the lives of hurricane survivors who relocated to Austin Texas Drawing on social capital and social network theory the authors assess the complementary and often conflicting roles of FEMA other governmental agencies and a range of non governmental organizations in addressing survivors short and longer term needs While these organizations came together to assist with immediate emergency needs even collectively they could not deal with survivors long term needs for employment affordable housing and personal records necessary to rebuild lives Community Lost provides empirical evidence that civil society organizations cannot substitute for an efficient and benevolent state which is necessary for society to function Lost Biloxi Edmond Boudreaux, 2015 Biloxi's beaches and casinos make the city a haven for Gulf Coast tourists And since it's one of America's oldest communities local residents have seen many iconic treasures come and go Before Hurricane Katrina more than 150 historical structures dotted the area Of those 60 were lost to the devastating storm including the Father Ryan House built in the early 1840s In 1969 Hurricane Camille flattened the Baldwin Wood Lighthouse Other structures like Biloxi City Hall on Main Street faded away with the passage of time having stood resolute for decades Author Edmond Boudreaux recalls Biloxi's most significant and cherished landmarks The Night the War Was Lost Charles L. Dufour, 1994-01-01 Long before the Confederacy was crushed militarily it was defeated economically writes Charles L. River below New Orleans in the predawn of April 24 1862 David Farragut with fourteen gunboats ran past two forts to capture the South's principal seaport Vividly descriptive The Night the War Was Lost is also very human in its portrayal of terrified citizens and leaders occasionally rising to heroism In a swift moving narrative Dufour explains the reasons for the seizure of New Orleans and describes its results

Matrana,2009-01-01 The great majority of the South s plantation homes have been destroyed over time and many have long been forgotten In Lost Plantations of the South Marc R Matrana weaves together photographs diaries and letters architectural renderings and other rare documents to tell the story of sixty of these vanquished estates and the people who once called them home From plantations that were destroyed by natural disaster such as Alabama s Forks of Cypress to those that were intentionally demolished such as Seven Oaks in Louisiana and Mount Brilliant in Kentucky Matrana resurrects these lost mansions Including plantations throughout the South as well as border states Matrana carefully tracks the histories of each from the earliest days of construction to the often contentious struggles to preserve these irreplaceable historic treasures Lost Plantations of the South explores the root causes of demise and provides understanding and insight on how lessons learned in these sad losses can help prevent future preservation crises Capturing the voices of masters and mistresses alongside those of slaves and featuring more than one hundred elegant archival illustrations this book explores the powerful and complex histories of these cardinal homes across the South

The Lost Translators of 1808 and the Birth of Civil Law in Louisiana Vernon Valentine Palmer, 2021-02 In 1808 the legislature of the Louisiana territory appointed two men to translate the Digest of the Laws in Force in the Territory of Orleans or as it was called at the time simply the Code from the original French into English Those officials however did not reveal who received the commission and the translators never identified themselves Indeed the translators of 1808 guarded their secret so well that their identities have remained unknown for more than two hundred years Their names personalities careers and credentials indeed everything about them have been a missing chapter in Louisiana legal history In this volume Vernon Valentine Palmer through painstaking research uncovers the identity of the translators presents their life stories and evaluates their translation in the context of the birth of civil law in Louisiana One consequence of the translators previous anonymity has been that the translation itself has never been fully examined before this study To be sure the translation has been criticized and specific errors have been pointed out but Palmer's study is the first general evaluation that considers the translation's goals the Louisiana context its merits and demerits its innovations failures and successes It thus allows us to understand how much and in what ways the translators affected the future course of Louisiana law

Congress Senate, 1950 Lost in the Transit Desert Diane Jones Allen, 2017-07-28 Increased redevelopment the dismantling of public housing and increasing housing costs are forcing a shift in migration of lower income and transit dependent populations to the suburbs These suburbs are often missing basic transportation and strategies to address this are lacking This absence of public transit creates barriers to viable employment and accessibility to cultural networks and plays a role in increasing social inequality This book investigates how housing and transport policy have played their role in creating these Transit Deserts and what impact race has upon those likely to be affected Diane Jones Allen uses research from New Orleans Baltimore and Chicago to explore the forces at work in these situations as well as proposing potential solutions Mapping interviews photographs and narratives all come together to highlight the inequities and challenges in Transit Deserts where a lack of access can make all journeys such as to jobs stores or relatives much more difficult Alternatives to public transit abound from traditional methods such as biking and carpooling to more culturally specific tactics and are examined comprehensively This is valuable reading for students and researchers interested in transport planning urban planning city infrastructure and transport geography
