New Versions Of Victims Feminists Struggle With The Concept:

New Versions of Victims Sharon Lamb, 1999-06 The papers collected here present a critical analysis of popular debates about victimization The authors argue that we must move beyond polarized positions to examine the victim as a socially constructed term and to explore in nuanced terms why we see victims the way we do Must one have been subjected to extreme or prolonged suffering to merit designation as a victim How are we to explain rape victims who seemingly get over their experience with no lingering emotional scars The papers simultaneously critique exaggerated claims by victim advocates about the harm of victimization while taking on the reactionary boilerplate of writers such as Katie Roiphe and Camille Paglia and offering further strategies for countering the backlash

New Feminist Stories of Child Sexual Abuse Paula Reavey, Sam Warner, 2003 Child sexual abuse is a multifaceted event interpreted in many different ways in many different contexts In New Feminist Stories of Child Sexual Abuse contributors try to untangle some of the complex ways in which stories of child sexual abuse are translated through and into personal professional and social politics The first section of the book explores the cultural and political landscape of child sexual abuse in Western and non Western contexts It examines the ways in which radical aspects of feminism can be undermined in Western cultures and how Westernised ideologies of childhood sex and gender have been used to structure discussions about child sexual abuse across the world The second section traces the effects of these wider cultural and political narratives through the various contexts in which child sexual abuse is theorised and around which interventions in the lives of women are structured It provides insights into how traditional approaches to understanding harm can be challenged and reworked in practice using alternative therapeutic models based on feminist post structuralist agendas Reworking earlier feminist analyses New Feminist Stories of Child Sexual Abuse asks pertinent questions about how child sexual abuse is produced rather than merely represented in the ways we speak about it

Putting Feminism to Work Suzanne Egan, 2020-11-23 This book explores the place of feminism and uptake of trauma in contemporary work against sexual violence Egan presents a refreshing alternative position on arguments about the co-optation or erasure of feminism within institutionalized professionalized services for sexual assault victims Using original research on Australian sexual assault services Putting Feminism to Work effectively illustrates how feminist concepts and ideas have become routinized in contemporary services and enacted in daily practices with survivors and communities. The book engages with yet resists the notion that feminist engagement with knowledge trauma based in psychiatry and clinical psychology is incompatible with feminism or inevitably reduces sexual violence to a problem of individual healing. Indeed, Egan argues that the productive ways practitioners integrate neurobiological understandings of trauma into their work suggests rich possibilities for reintroducing a non-essentialist biology of the body into feminist theories of sexual violence. Scholars, students, and practitioners working in the fields of violence against women, sociology, women's and gender studies, health, social work, and policy studies, as well as the emerging field of sociologically informed trauma studies, will find this book of interest.
