The River's Song Jacqueline Bishop, 2007 This engaging coming of age novel looks back over the idyllic Jamaican girlhood and the both alienating and transforming experience of winning a scholarship to the most prestigious girls boarding school on the island Atypical of Caribbean literature because of its description of a young girl's sexual awakening the novel offers poetic descriptions of rural and urban Jamaica and delightful characterizations of warm and lively women including the narrator's mother grandmother and neighbors Song of the River Joy Cowley, 2019-08-13 In this resonant story Cam the mountain boy follows the river from its trickling source in the mountain snow all the way to the coast The river leads him through forest farms and towns to the salty wind of the sea Dramatic landscape illustrations evoke a North American landscape and are packed with detail to explore the world of the river Women, Subalterns, and Ecologies in South and Southeast Asian Women's Fiction Chitra Sankaran, 2021-11 In recent decades East Asia has gained prominence and has become synonymous with Asia while other Asian regions such as South and Southeast Asia have been subsumed under it The resultant overgeneralization has meant that significant aspects of the global ecological crisis as they affect these two regions have been overlooked Chitra Sankaran refocuses the global lens on these two rapidly developing regions of Asia Combining

South Asian and Southeast Asian philosophical views and folk perspectives with mainstream ecocritical and ecofeminist theories she generates a localized critical idiom that qualifies and subverts some established theoretical assumptions This pioneering study introducing a corpus of more than thirty ecofictions by women writers from twelve countries in South and Southeast Asia examines how recent global threats to ecosystems in both nature and culture impact subdominant groups including women This new corpus reveals how women and subalterns engage with various aspects of critical ecologies Using ecofeminist theory augmented by postcolonial and risk theories as the main theoretical framework Sankaran argues that these women writers present unique perspectives that review Asian women s relationships to human and nonhuman worlds

Riversong Craig Lesley, 1993-08-20 Danny is determined to get closer to his son Jack to teach him traditional ways to steer him away from rodeoing Danny and Jack survive a forest fire make a go of it as migrant workers then finally settle down to salmon fishing on the Columbia River There they join forces with Willis Salwish a mysterious old Yakima Indian who clings to traditional fishing sites despite opposition from white fisherman Danny s friendship with Willis draws him into the dispute over fishing rights and it s Willis who brings him face to face with ghosts from his past and leads him to his lost heritage

River's End Melody Carlson, 2012 With brokenness and humility three generations of women return to their roots to discover who they are and who they are meant to be
