Rewriting the Break Event Robert Zacharias, 2013-10-26 Despite the fact that Russian Mennonites began arriving in Canada en masse in the 1870s Mennonite Canadian literature has been marked by a compulsive retelling of the mass migration of some 20 000 Russian Mennonites to Canada following the collapse of the Mennonite Commonwealth in the 1920s This privileging of a seminal dispersal within the community's broader history reveals the ways in which the 1920s narrative has come to function as an origin story or break event for the Russian Mennonites in Canada serving to affirm a communal identity across national and generational boundaries Drawing on recent work in diaspora studies Rewriting the Break Event offers a historicization of Mennonite literary studies in Canada followed by close readings of five novels that rewrite the Mennonite break event through specific strains of emphasis including a religious narrative ethnic narrative trauma narrative and meta narrative The result is thoughtful and engaging exploration of the shifting contours of Mennonite collective identity and an exciting new methodology that promises to resituate the discourse of migrant writing in Canada

Sisters Or Strangers Franca Iacovetta, Frances Swyripa, Marlene Epp, 2004-01-01 Spanning two hundred years of history from the nineteenth century to the 1990s Sisters or Strangers explores the complex lives of immigrant ethnic and racialized women in Canada The volume deals with a cross section of peoples including Japanese Chinese Black Aboriginal Irish Finnish Ukrainian Jewish Mennonite Armenian and South Asian Hindu women and diverse groups of women including white settlers refugees domestic servants consumer activists nurses wives and mothers The central themes of Sisters or Strangers include discourses of race in the context of nation building encounters with the state and public institutions symbolic and media representations of women familial relations domestic violence and racism and analyses of history and memory In different ways the authors question whether the historical experience of women in Canada represents a sisterhood of challenge and opportunity or if the racial class or marginalized identity of the immigrant and minority women made them in fact strangers in a country where privilege and opportunity fall according to criteria of exclusion Using a variety of theoretical approaches this collaborative work reminds us that victimization and agency are never mutually exclusive and encourages us to reflect critically on the categories of race gender and the nation
