The contributors explore both the objects among which Cather lived and the objects that appear in her writings as well as the commercial constraints of the publishing industry in which her art was made and marketed Essays address her relationship to guilts both personally and as symbols in her work her contributions to domestic magazines such as Home Monthly and Woman's Home Companion the problematic nature of Hollywood productions of her work and her efforts and successes as a businesswoman By establishing the centrality of material matters to her writing these essays contribute to the reclaiming of Cather as a modernist and highlight the significance of material culture in general to the study of American literature J.S.
