Reading Biography Carl Rollyson,2004 Most book reviewers know very little about the history or the art of biography. Indeed, if there is any art in biography, it is the rare reviewer that acknowledges it or knows how to discuss it. Usually, the reviewer regards biography as an occasion to wax eloquent about what he or she thinks of the subject. Little space, if any, is devoted to the biography's structure or style, to the biographer's peculiar problems, or to how the biography relates to others about the same subject. Carl Rollyson, a professional biographer and weekly columnist, On Biography for The New York Sun explores the ramifications of authorized and unauthorized biographies, investigates the relationship between biography and history, biography and fiction, biography and autobiography, as well as commenting on certain perennial biographical subjects such as Napoleon, and on sub-genres such as children's biography and on the most recent developments in life writing. Rollyson's aim is to reach not merely scholars but that vast general audience addicted to reading biography, enhancing their pleasure by providing insight or, you might say, the inside word on how biographies are put together.

Pocahontas Patricia Miles Martin,1964 A simple biography of the proud Indian princess who saved the life of John Smith, married an Englishman, and went to England where she met the Queen.

Appalachian Children's Literature ,2010-04-13 This comprehensive bibliography includes books written about or set in Appalachia from the 18th century to the present. Titles represent the entire region as defined by the Appalachian Regional Commission, including portions of 13 states stretching from southern New York to northern Mississippi. The bibliography is arranged in alphabetical order by author, and each title is accompanied by an annotation, most of which include composite reviews and critical analyses of the work. All classic genres of children's literature are represented.

Reflective Reading and the Power of Narrative Karyn Sproles,2018-07-11 Reflective Reading and the Power of Narrative: Producing the Reader is an interdisciplinary exploration into the profound power of narratives to create and recreate how we imagine ourselves. It posits that the process of producing a text also produces the reader. Written from the perspective of a psychoanalytic feminist, Sproles considers a wide array of examples from literature, popular culture, and her own experiences to illustrate what she calls reflective reading, a metacognitive reading practice that recognizes the workings of the unconscious to push the reader toward a potentially transformational engagement with narrative This may manifest as epiphany recovery from loss or resolution of repressed trauma Each chapter draws on examples of characters and authors who model a reflective reading process from Jane Austen and Virginia Woolf to Johnny Cash and Alison Bechdel By reclaiming the role of the unconscious Karyn Sproles reinvigorates the theoretical work begun by reader response criticism and develops a deep understanding of identification and transference as an integral part of the reading process For students and researchers of cultural studies psychoanalysis gender studies and feminist literature and theory Reflective Reading and the Power of Narrative offers innovative and accessible ideas on the relationship between reader and text The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Children and Biography Kate Douglas, 2022-08-25 The first study of life narratives produced for about and written by children this book examines the recent popularity of children's biographies and how they engage with the biggest issues of our time environmental change health crises education and children's personal and political development Beginning with a literary historical overview Children and Biography proceeds to examine 21st century examples and trends such as illustrated texts including Women in Science the Fantastically Great Women Who books Rebel Dogs Goodnight Stories for Rebel Girls Kids Who Did My Beautiful Birds and The Journey The book also considers archives of children's writings and drawings in particular the testimonies of child asylum seekers children's biographical art and Lockdown diaries produced during the Covid 19 pandemic By analyzing these works alongside empirical studies into how such material is received by child readers and how texts generated by children are perceived both by them and their parents this book provides new knowledge on how biographies for children are produced and read Comprehensive and original Children and Biography presents an ethical methodological framework for scholarly practice when reading witnessing and interpreting children's life narratives The book offers a mandate for future researchers to place children's voices and writing at the centre of inquiries in ways that facilitate genuine agency for child authors

Transatlantic Literature and Transitivity, 1780-1850 Annika Bautz, Kathryn Gray, 2017-04-28 This book makes an important contribution to transatlantic literary studies and an emerging body of work on identity formation and print culture in the Atlantic world The collection identifies the ways in which historically situated but malleable subjectivities engage with popular and pressing debates about class slavery natural knowledge democracy and religion In addition the book also considers the ways in which material texts and genres including for example the essay the guidebook the travel narrative the periodical the novel and the poem can be scrutinized in relation to historically situated transatlantic transitions transformations and border crossings The volume is underpinned by a thorough examination of historical and conceptual frameworks and prioritizes notions of circulation and exchange as opposed to transfer and continuance in its analysis of authors' texts and ideas The collection is concerned with the movement of people texts and ideas in the currents of transatlantic markets and politics taking a fresh look at a range of canonical and popular writers of the period including Austen Poe Cr vecoeur Brockden Brown Sedgwick Hemans Bulwer Lytton Dickens and Melville In different ways the essays gathered together here are concerned with the potentially empowering realities of the transitive circulatory and contingent experiences of transatlantic literary and cultural production as they are manifest in the long nineteenth century *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
