

'Economic Recessions' 'Economic Depressions'

Is there a real difference between a recession and a depression?

A recession is a downward trend in the business cycle, one that is characterized by a decline in production and employment.

This trend lowers household income and spending, which consequently causes many businesses and households to delay making large investments or purchases.

A recession can be limited geographically, like in a single country.

A depression is a major downswing (far more severe than a downward trend) in the business cycle.

A depression is characterized by sharply reduced widespread unemployment, a serious decline of growth in construction, and great reductions in international trade and capital movements.

A depression can have global reach.

A Short History of Significant American Recessions, Depressions, and Panics Scott Belford, 2019-01-11 If you look carefully at the chart on the front cover you will notice that prior to WW II there was a significant number of Recessions Depressions and Panics Yet after WW II there was a noticeable absence of these downturns and they were both smaller in size and in duration this is not by accident This book explores why such a dichotomy exists and who or what is responsible for it We dig deep into what classical conservative economics means and what so called liberal economics consists of We look into why and where each is the same and each is different To understand this is to understand

Disentangling Economic Recessions and Depressions Bertrand Candelon,2016 We propose a nonparametric test that distinguishes depressions and booms from ordinary recessions and expansions Depressions and booms are defined as coming from another underlying process than recessions and expansions We find four depressions and booms in the NBER business cycle between 1919 and 2009 including the Great Depression and the World War II boom Our results suggest that the recent Great Recession does not qualify as a depression Multinomial logistic regressions show that stock returns output growth and inflation exhibit predictive power for depressions Surprisingly the term spread is not a leading indicator of depressions in contrast to recessions
