Landmarks in the Evolution of Humanist Thought

Pat Duffy Hutcheon

A stylized landscape illustration featuring rolling hills and mountains. The foreground is a dark green hill with a black line representing a road or path winding through it. The middle ground consists of several layers of hills in shades of teal and light blue, creating a sense of depth. The background shows more distant, lighter blue mountain ranges under a pale blue sky. The entire illustration is framed by a black border.

Road To Reason Landmarks In The Evolution Of Humanist Thought:

The Road to Reason Pat Duffy Hutcheon, 2001-01 There would seem to be a great deal of confusion and misunderstanding in the public mind about the life stance of modern humanism and its philosophical underpinnings As a committed humanist Pat Duffy Hutcheon has made many invaluable contributions to the clarification of the nature and origin of evolutionary naturalism as a necessary component of modern humanism This collection of topical essays is the most recent addition to her ongoing pursuit following her analysis of cultural development in Building Character and Culture Westport CT Praeger 1999 and her earlier seminal work tracing the evolution of the naturalistic basis of social scientific thought in Leaving the Cave Waterloo ON Wilfrid Laurier University Press 1996 This her newest book presents the ideas in the context of their time of some of the most prominent thinkers who have in one way or another shaped the evolving philosophy of humanism over the centuries It is a much needed and most welcome resource for any thoughtful person who wants to better appreciate the naturalistic view of human existence rather than the supernatural or mystical approaches that so regrettably dominate the current scene

Cultural Reformations Brian Cummings, James Simpson, 2010-06-24 The original essays in Oxford Twenty First Century Approaches to Literature mean to provoke rather than reassure to challenge rather than codify Instead of summarizing existing knowledge scholars working in the field aim at opening fresh discussion instead of emphasizing settled consensus they direct their readers to areas of enlivened and unresolved debate The deepest periodic division in English literary history has been between the Medieval and the Early Modern not least because the cultural investments in maintaining that division are exceptionally powerful Narratives of national and religious identity and freedom of individual liberties of the history of education and scholarship of reading or the history of the book of the very possibility of persuasive historical consciousness itself each of these narratives and more is motivated by positing a powerful break around 1500 None of the claims for a profound historical and cultural break at the turn of the fifteenth into the sixteenth centuries is negligible The very habit of working within those periodic bounds either Medieval or Early Modern tends however simultaneously to affirm and to ignore the rupture It affirms the rupture by staying within standard periodic bounds but it ignores it by never examining the rupture itself The moment of profound change is either for medievalists just over an unexplored horizon or for Early Modernists a zero point behind which more penetrating examination is unnecessary That situation is now rapidly changing Scholars are building bridges that link previously insular areas Both periods are starting to look different in dialogue with each other The change underway has yet to find collected voices behind it Cultural Reformations volume aims to provide those voices It will give focus authority and drive to a new area

The Evolved Self Lloyd Hawkeye Robertson, 2020-09-15 In this work the self which is core to such concepts as self esteem and self actualization is mapped using elemental units of culture called memes To understand this self we draw on Western philosophy major schools of psychology and the cross cultural experience of the self in both collectivist and individualist cultures With this grounding a diverse sample of eleven selves representing three genders are mapped and analyzed grouped in the following clusters 1 North American selves built through participation in sports 2 selves centred on notions of North American aboriginality 3 selves of individuals following a secular humanist paradigm and 4 selves from China and Russia Two methods of self mapping are described The results support a hypothesis that a healthy or functional self is composed of fundamental elements including constancy volition uniqueness productivity intimacy and social interest The application of this research and the method of self mapping to counselling and psychotherapy are explored A disciplinary paradigm is proposed uniting major schools of psychotherapy This work will be of interest to philosophers psychologists social workers sociologists and all who have wondered how they come to define themselves in the ways that they do Published in English

Harriet Martineau Michael R. Hill, Susan Hoecker-Drysdale, 2014-05-01 The Essays in this volume explore the work of Harriet Martineau from a sociological perspective highlighting her theoretical contributions in the areas of the sociology of labor gender and political economy The contributors each offer a contextual theoretical and methodological assessment of her work beginning with the opportunities and challenges of utilizing Martineau pedagogically in the sociology classroom
