

Silver Rights

Constance Curry

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY MARIAN WRIGHT EDELMAN

n September 3, 1965, seven of Mae Bertha and Matthew Carter's children lined up to wait for the school bus that would take them the first few miles of a long, hard journey. On that day, with its scare tactics and threats, those seven children would desegregate the all-white schools in Sunflower County, Mississippi. That day, they would claim their civil rights.

Student Activism and Civil Rights in Mississippi James P. Marshall, 2013-03-11 In 1960 students supporting civil rights moved into Mississippi and challenged white supremacy by encouraging African Americans to reassert the rights guaranteed them under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution The ensuing social upheaval changed the state forever The author a former civil rights activist tells the story of the quest for racial equality in Mississippi Using a variety of sources as well as his own memories he weaves together an astonishing account of student protestors and local activists who risked their lives by fighting against southern resistance and federal inaction Their efforts and the horrific violence inflicted on them helped push many non southerners and the federal government into action culminating in the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the 1965 Voting Rights Act measures that destroyed legalized segregation and disfranchisement
