The Orphan Scandal Beth Baron,2014-07-09 On a sweltering June morning in 1933 a fifteen year old Muslim orphan girl refused to rise in a show of respect for her elders at her Christian missionary school in Port Said Her intransigence led to a beating and to the end of most foreign missions in Egypt and contributed to the rise of Islamist organizations Turkiyya Hasan left the Swedish Salaam Mission with scratches on her legs and a suitcase of evidence of missionary misdeeds Her story hit a nerve among Egyptians and news of the beating quickly spread through the country Suspicion of missionary schools hospitals and homes increased and a vehement anti missionary movement swept the country That missionaries had won few converts was immaterial to Egyptian observers stories such as Turkiyya s showed that the threat to Muslims and Islam was real This is a great story of unintended consequences Christian missionaries came to Egypt to convert and provide social services for children Their actions ultimately inspired the development of the Muslim Brotherhood and similar Islamist groups In The Orphan Scandal Beth Baron provides a new lens through which to view the rise of Islamic groups in Egypt This fresh perspective offers a starting point to uncover hidden links between Islamic activists and a broad cadre of Protestant evangelicals Exploring the historical aims of the Christian missions and the early efforts of the Muslim Brotherhood Baron shows how the Muslim Brotherhood and like minded Islamist associations developed alongside and in reaction to the influx of missionaries Patterning their organization and social welfare projects on the early success of the Christian missions the Brotherhood launched their own efforts to save children and provide for the orphaned abandoned and poor In battling for Egypt s children Islamic activists created a network of social welfare institutions and a template for social action across the country the effects of which we now know would only gain power and influence across the country in the decades to come

An Orphan in New York City Seymour Siegel,2000-08-14 An Orphan in New York City is about survival During the Great Depression families who suffered loss of income loss of health and loss of life sought frantically for ways to survive Social Security Housing and Urban Development Public Assistance and Public Health programs available today were limited or non existent back then All extended family members helped out as much as they could When this was not enough the only choice was to break up the family Benevolent Jews had established orphanages to care for children left homeless or in poverty The largest of these orphanages was the

Hebrew Orphan Asylum better known as the HOA or The Home located between 136th to 138th Streets on Amsterdam Avenue across from the Lewisohn Stadium of the City College of New York City From 1929 to 1939 the HOA housed more than one thousand boys and girls at a time The Hebrew Orphan Asylum was referred to as a city within a city as it was basically self contained Not only where there the essentials of residential life dormitories a kitchen a dining room an infirmary a dental clinic and a laundry but also a public school 192 a synagogue and a religious school Then too there were a bakery a shoe shop a tailor shop a barber shop a clothing store a candy store a woodworking room a sewing room a photography studio and darkroom a boys scout room a band room a choir room athletic fields and playgrounds There was a Reception House the Main Building the Warner Brothers Gymnasium state of the art at that time and buildings for boilers for heating It had its own transportation system and a fire engine There were military bands and drill squads fraternities and sororities as well as baseball basketball and football teams that competed with other orphanages and the junior varsity at City College Orphans half orphans and children from broken families began their shared institutional lives at the Reception House where they were isolated for two weeks to assure they did not bring any contagious disease or illness into the institution The author was one of those with a family destroyed by alcoholism and poverty who had to leave his family at the age of nine and begin an orphan s life He writes Having seen from my top floor perch in the Reception House children who were playing on the huge field below and having listened to the marching band and watched the military drills I was looking forward to moving to the Main Building But when I finally got there I felt lost in the labyrinth of hallways and doorways and among the masses of children who were coming and going Outside in the courtyard were more than 100 children talking shouting and playing together One of my first memories there is of hearing a short rotund man suddenly shout above that babble of voices All Steeeeeeeeeeeel All Still What that meant only became clear when as I watched most of the children froze in their places and stopped talking One child did not freeze The man with the powerful voice strode over to him and slapped him so hard across the face that the child fell down In the years that I would be in the orphanage that and similar examples made me obey the All Still and always appear to be following commands rules and regulations even when I wasn t obeying What I witnessed there day after day also reinforced my hopeless and helpless feeling that there were immense forces beyond my control my father s rage my separation my placement in an institutional environment and the subsequent abuse in that environment I wept within myself and there was no adult at the institution to comfort me not the first day nor the last For his own healing Dr Siegel has written a book about his decade during the depression years in the Hebrew Orphan Asylum

Restoring the Shining Waters David Brooks,2015-08-25 No sooner had the EPA established the Superfund program in 1980 to clean up the nation's toxic waste dumps and other abandoned hazardous waste sites than a little Montana town found itself topping the new program's National Priority List Milltown a place too small to warrant a listing in the U S Census sat alongside a modest hydroelectric dam at the confluence of the Clark Fork and Blackfoot Rivers For three quarters of a century arsenic laced waste from some of the world's largest copper mining operations had accumulated behind the dam Soon Milltown became the site of Superfund's first dam removal and watershed restoration marking a turning point in U S environmental history The story of this dramatic shift is the tale of individuals rallying to reclaim a place they valued beyond its utility In Restoring the Shining Waters David Brooks gives an intimate account of how local citizens homeowners university scientists county health officials grassroots environmentalists business leaders and thousands of engaged residents brought about the removal of Milltown Dam Interviews with townspeople outside environmentalists mining executives and federal officials reveal how the everyday actions of individuals got the dam removed and in the process pushed Superfund to allow more public participation in decision making and to emphasize restoration over containment of polluted environments A federal program designed to deal with the toxic legacies of industrialization thus became a starting point for restoring America's most damaged environments largely through the efforts of local communities With curiosity conviction and a strong sense of place the small town of Milltown helped restore an iconic western river valley and in doing so shaped the history of Superfund and modern environmentalism
