Miguel Pinero's explosive play, winner of the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award for the Best American Play of 1974, now comes to the screen with all its harshness and truth intact. Among the inmates of the Tombs Detention Center in New York, there exists a complex code of wrath. When the rules hold, the inmates have a "good floor." But the rules don't always hold.

There are the blacks; among them, Ice, cool as his name and fast on his feet; El Raheem, messenger of Allah and raw opportunist; Omar, slow-witted but honest; Pappy, soft-spoken and self-controlled. And there are the Ricans; Juan, shrewd, insightful, with as big an ear as the outside of his head.
