Newsmaker Patricia Beard,2016-05-01 This is the story of one of the most important American newspapermen of the twentieth century Roy Howard rose to prominence at the height of newspapers power and became a leader in the evolution of print news starting in 1908 when E W Scripps appointed him head of the fledgling United Press at age 25 through his tenure as chairman of the Scripps Howard empire until 1952 As Howard expanded and modernized the business he landed some of the most important scoops between World War I and the Korean War Ebullient likeable and outgoing he headed one of only two coast to coast news concerns Hearst being the other An advisor to presidents and prime ministers Howard witnessed the most significant events of the time A 1930 front page New York Times article named him one of the 59 men who rule America with John D Rockefeller topping the list Time magazine put him on the cover The Saturday Evening Post lionized him Even his enemies gave him plenty of coverage The New Yorker excoriated him in a four part series although the author admitted that Howard s and Hearst s were the only American newspaper publishers whose photographs the average newspaper reader would recognize With exclusive first time access to thousands of previously unpublished documents in the privately held Howard family archives author Patricia Beard opens a rich mine of stories from one of the most volatile periods in history as revealed by the head of a newspaper empire at a time when the press both made and broke the news

ABOUT THE BOOK Viewed simply A Cook's Tour is one man's quest to discover just what the perfect meal might be. Unfortunately things are rarely so cut and dried as Bourdain's travels at least for this book took place pre September 11th there is still a little elasticity in the travel. Yes Bourdain experiences certain moments of unease while on his journey but not in the way that travelers are forced to take added precautions today Food is the great equalizer a shared passion simply made up of different ingredients depending on where you are in the world. It is able to evoke the strong visceral reactions related not only to taste but also touch smell sound and sight. Given food's shared cultural arc it's not a stretch to see how something as basic as food could be considered transformative.

MEET THE AUTHOR Shauna Patton grew up in the wilds of Northern California and thus removed from populous cities she turned to the expanse of her imagination for entertainment. This would include writing short stories and plays and roping unsuspecting friends family into producing and performing. This led to a four year tenure at UC Santa Cruz where she majored in Theatre Arts with a year abroad at a University in Southern England. When not concocting crazy stories she loves to watch movies especially Bollywood anything Christian Bale and 1940s film noir read knit watch the Dropkick Murphys in concert rock out to cheesy 80s pop and hang out with friends.

EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK Inspired by the idea of the perfect meal Anthony Bourdain's novel A Cook's Tour Global Adventures in Extreme Cuisines is part foodie travel diary and part memoir of the man himself. Not for those with weak stomachs Bourdain launches himself on a tour around the globe on a quest for good food movie style adventure and once in a lifetime experiences. Whether he's chowing down on the still beating heart of a cobra in Vietnam lamb gonads in the Sahara haggis in Scotland or shuddering through the horrors of birds nest soup Bourdain's food encounters offer a great sensory delight for the reader especially secondhand. Much of the developed world is far removed from their food. There is little knowledge about the actual gathering and preparation of food as the glossy supermarkets hide the behind the scenes carnage. As Bourdain notes Respecting the ingredients may no longer be an economic necessity in much of the emerging world it is now a pleasure to be experienced and enjoyed at one's chosen time and place. Bourdain's quest for culinary excellence is grandiose. I knew that the best meal in the world is rarely the most sophisticated or expensive one context and memory play powerful roles in the truly great meals in one's life. Buy a copy to keep reading.
