Collections

February 2000

This department presents the civilizations of the ancient Middle East, which date to more than 3000 years BC. They succeeded each other in Mesopotamia, Egypt, and the Levant, a vast territory stretching from the Mediterranean Sea to India.

References

Created by Jean-François Champollion, this department illustrates the art of ancient Egypt by means of two decorated pages. The first is Champollion's, from the original in 1824, and the second is a revision, highlighting specific aspects of Egyptian civilisation. Two additional versions, devoted to Upper Egypt and Roman Egypt, round out this collection.

Greek, Persian,
and Roman Religions

This department continues to study and produce the three ancient civilizations—Egyptian, Persian, and Roman. On the general level, a chronological path encompasses considerable antiquities from the pre-colonial era to the 19th century A.D. On the floor level, the collection is organized by technique and type of material such as ceramics, jewelry, silverware, and glassware as well as by various Egyptian and Roman collections.

History of the Laboratory and Molecular Research

These two systems used an archaeological path present the archaeological history of the colony.

1000

The collections in this department cover the history of European painting from the mid-15th century to the mid-19th century. They are divided into three large groups: the French school (a somewhat subjective), the Italian and Spanish schools, and the Northern European schools (German, Flemish, and Dutch).

Abstract

This department encompasses European sculpture from the High Middle Ages to the mid-eight century. The collection contains French works for the most part, with a number of significant pieces from Italy, Spain and Northern France.

1000

The collections in this department – e.g. objects from the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, decorative arts of the 17th and 18th centuries, items from the 19th century in the Chinese collection belonging to the French crown, 19th century objects and furniture, and the 19th-century 10 apartments – represent various different periods.

References and Acknowledgements

The Prints and Drawings Department maintains the collection of drawings (more than one hundred thousand works) of the Florentine de Medici-Riccardi library and the greatest plans collection. These works may be viewed privately by arrangement. Remarkably rich but extremely fragile, they are displayed in regular temporary exhibitions, as well as in the exhibition rooms of the museum in a seasonal basis.

The Lerner Museum is entering a new chapter in its history, thanks to the partnership between Lerner and its faculty and graduate students.

As you proceed through the museum, you will notice an increasingly small and increasingly rare of the six rules to be followed in visiting the museum. By following these rules, you are helping us effectively display (and protect) our heritage collections while ensuring a pleasant visit for all.

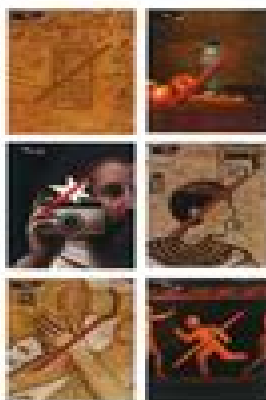

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

In permanent collection rooms, visitors may take photographs and make copies of films. However, the use of a flash or any other type of lighting equipment is prohibited.

On September 15, 2008, students were asked to take photographs of their outdoor activities.

visitors may not use their cell phones, cameras, laptop computers, cameras, mobile devices, touch and voice of art, or not in any room of the museum.
