Shaw, 2019-05-28 In late March 1975 as the Vietnam War raged an Australian voluntary aid worker named Rosemary Taylor approached the Australian Embassy seeking assistance to fly 600 orphans out of Saigon to safety Rosemary and Margaret Moses two former nuns from Adelaide had spent eight years in Vietnam during the war building up a complex of nurseries to house war orphans and street waifs as the organisation that built up around them facilitated international adoptions for the children As the North Vietnamese forces closed in on their nurseries they needed a plan to evacuate the children or all their work might count for little Based on extensive archival and historical research and interviews of some of those directly involved in the events described Operation Babylift details the last month of the Vietnam War from the perspective of the most vulnerable victims of that war the orphans it created Through the story of the attempt to save 600 children we see how a small group of determined women refused to play political games as they tried to remake the lives of a forgotten generation one child at a time Collector's Guide ,2007 The Collector's Guide strives to be a trusted partner in the business of art by being the most knowledgeable helpful and friendly resource to New Mexico's artists art galleries museums and art service providers Through a printed guidebook the World Wide Web and weekly radio programs we serve art collectors and others seeking information about the art and culture of New Mexico Soldiers, Traders, and Slaves Janet Ewald, 1990 In the Nuba Hills on the frontiers of the Islamic Sudan a dynasty of Muslim warrior kings arose in the eighteenth century Their kingdom Taqali survived as an independent state resisting conquest by larger empires and coming under external control only during the twentieth century Janet Ewald has written the first comprehensive account of the origins and development of the Taqali kingdom Ewald shows how events originating far beyond the Taqali massif allowed local Muslim soldiers to become kings of the Taqali in the eighteenth century and then to hold on to their power But the nature of that power was shaped by the highland farmers who stubbornly and largely successfully resisted the efforts of the kings to parlay their control over the means of production In this struggle religion became an ideological weapon on both sides as the Taqali farmers asserted their local beliefs against their Muslim rulers Political confrontations also bore unintended economic consequences Ewald's account of Taqali challenges current views on the impact of Islam merchant capitalism and Egyptian military administration in nineteenth century Sudan The Connoisseur ,1988-09 The Sudan of the Three Niles P.M. Holt, 2021-10-25 This work is an annotated translation of the Funj Chronicle the only full length Arabic account of the Nilotic Sudan from 910 1504 5 to 1288 1871 produced by a succession of nineteenth century Sudanese writers The earlier part is based on a king list of the Funj dynasty of Sinn r From the mid twelfth eighteenth century an increasingly detailed narrative describes the rule of Hamaj regents the conquest by Mu ammad Al Pasha's forces and the first half century of Turco Egyptian government The translator's Introduction discusses the textual history structure and authorship of the Chronicle while four Appendixes

provide supplementary materials This is a major source for Sudanese history to which non readers of Arabic have previously had access only through the summary translation in Harold MacMichael s History of the Arabs in the Sudan Cambridge 1992
