Qualitative Mathematics for the Social Sciences Lee Rudolph, 2013-01-03 In this book Lee Rudolph brings together international contributors who combine psychological and mathematical perspectives to analyse how qualitative mathematics can be used to create models of social and psychological processes Bridging the gap between the fields with an imaginative and stimulating collection of contributed chapters the volume updates the current research on the subject which until now has been rather limited focussing largely on the use of statistics Qualitative Mathematics for the Social Sciences contains a variety of useful illustrative figures introducing readers from the social sciences to the rich contribution that modern mathematics has made to our knowledge of logic structures and dynamic systems A beguiling array of conceptual systems topological models and fractals are discussed which transcend the application of statistics and bring a fresh perspective to the study of social representations The wide selection of qualitative mathematical methodologies discussed in this volume will be hugely valuable to higher level undergraduate and postgraduate students of psychology sociology and mathematics It will also be useful for researchers academics and professionals from the social sciences who want a firmer grasp on the use of qualitative mathematics Mathematics and Social Sciences ,1945 Applied Computational Mathematics in Social Sciences Romulus-Catalin Damaceanu,2010

Applied Computational Mathematics in Social Sciences adopts a modern scientific approach that combines knowledge from mathematical modeling with various aspects of social science Special algorithms can be created to simulate an artificial society and a detailed analysis can subsequently be used to project social realities This Ebook specifically deals with computations using the NetLogo platform and is intended for researchers interested in advanced human geography and mathematical modeling studies What are the Needs in Precollege Science, Mathematics, and Social Science Education? ,1980 Mathematical Models in the Social Sciences John G Kemeny,J Laurie (James Laurie) 1925
