Matter Of Revenge:

Reports of Proceedings ... Boston (Mass.). City Council, 1891 The Undivided Self David Charles, 2021-03-16 Aristotle initiated the systematic investigation of perception the emotions memory desire and action developing his own account of these phenomena and their interconnection The Undivided Self aims to gain a philosophical understanding of his views and to examine how far they withstand critical scrutiny Aristotle s account it is argued constitutes a philosophically live alternative to conventional post Cartesian thinking about psychological phenomena and their place in a material world Charles offers a way to dissolve rather than solve the mind body problem we have inherited To-day ,1898 Justice Matters Mona Sue Weissmark, 2004-01-29 In the fall of 1992 in a small room in Boston MA an extraordinary meeting took place For the first time the sons and daughters of Holocaust victims met face to face with the children of Nazis for a fascinating research project to discuss the intersections of their pasts and the painful legacies that history has imposed on them Taking that remarkable gathering as its starting point Justice Matters illustrates how the psychology of hatred and ethnic resentments is passed from generation to generation Psychologist Mona Weissmark herself the child of Holocaust survivors argues that justice is profoundly shaped by emotional responses In her in depth study of the legacy encountered by these children Weissmark found not surprisingly that in the face of unjust treatment the natural response is resentment and deep anger and in most cases an overwhelming need for revenge Weissmark argues that while legal systems offer a structured means for redressing injustice they have rarely addressed the emotional pain which left unresolved is then passed along to the next generation leading to entrenched ethnic tension and group conflict In the grim litany of twentieth century genocides few events cut a broader and more lasting swath through humanity than the Holocaust How then would the offspring of Nazis and survivors react to the idea of reestablishing a relationship Could they talk to each other without open hostility Could they even attempt to imagine the experiences and outlook of the other Would they be willing to abandon their self definition as aggrieved victims as a means of moving forward Central to the perspectives of each group Weissmark found were stories searing anecdotes passed from parent to grandchild from aunt to nephew which personalized with singular intensity the experience She describes how these stories or legacies transmit moral values beliefs and emotions and thus freeze the past into place For instance cdxfmerged that most children of Nazis reported their parents told them stories about the war whereas children of survivors reported their parents told them stories about the Holocaust The daughter of a survivor said I didn t even know there was a war until I was a teenager I didn t even know fifty million people were killed during the war I thought just six million Jews were killed While the daughter of a Nazi officer recalled I didn t know about the concentration camps until I was in my teens First I heard about the Nazi party Then I heard stories about the war about bombs falling or about not having food At a time when the political arena is saturated with talk of justice tribunals reparations and revenge management Justice Matters provides valuable insights into the aftermath of ethnic and religious conflicts around the world from Rwanda to the Balkans from Northern Ireland to the Middle East The stories recounted here and the lessons they offer have universal applications for any divided society determined not to let the ghosts of the past determine the future Proceedings of the Boston Area Colloquium in Ancient Philosophy John J. Cleary, Gary
