Gender and Politics in Austrian Fiction Ritchie Robertson,Edward Timms,1996 This volume of essays on Austrian fiction compiled at a time when Austria is forming stronger links within the European Union illustrates a transition from traditional preoccupations with character differences between Austrian and German literature to wider concerns of politics and gender. Fictional treatments of such issues as male homosexuality, problems in feminism, the representation of women in male authored texts and anti war protest are examined both in well known novels and in little known works by underrated authors. Many of the authors discussed have received insufficient recognition because they do not fall within a familiar canon of German literature. The specialised research involved in compiling this material is accessible through a series of book reviews included at the end of the volume which range in subject area from the life of an eighteenth century soldier in the Habsburg service to the continuing discussion on Austrian identity.

Self-Reflective Fiction and 4E Cognition Merja Polvinen, 2022-12-30 This book brings together the study of self reflective fiction and the contemporary 4E theories of cognition in order to challenge existing cognitive theoretical models and approaches to literary phenomena. Polvinen presents reflective attention on artifice as an integral part of engagement with fictional narratives rather than as an external viewpoint that would obscure immersive experiences. The detailed analyses included are both of traditionally metafictional texts by John Barth, A.S. Byatt, Dave Eggers and Ali Smith as well as of speculative fictions by Ted Chiang, China Miéville, Christopher Priest and Catherynne M. Valente. Each of the chapters focuses on a specific issue of fictional cognition on metaphorical representation, spatiality, temporality and fictionality. As a whole, the book argues that by combining a literary and theoretically complex view of artifice with the enactive paradigm of perception and imagination, practitioners of cognitive literary studies can further sharpen their own conceptual and terminological apparatus and continue to generate fruitful hermeneutic circulation around the study of the imagination in both the sciences and the humanities. This book will appeal to students and scholars interested in cognitive approaches to literary studies, speculative fiction, metafiction and narrative studies.

Toward a Cognitive Theory of Narrative Acts Frederick Luis Aldama, 2010-05-10 Toward a Cognitive Theory of Narrative Acts brings together in one volume cutting edge research that turns to recent findings in cognitive and neurobiological sciences, psychology, linguistics, philosophy and evolutionary biology among other disciplines to explore and understand more deeply various cultural phenomena including art, music, literature and film. The essays fulfilling this task for the general reader as well as the specialist are written by renowned authors: H. Porter Abbott, Patrick Colm Hogan, Suzanne Keen, Herbert Lindenberger, Lisa Zunshine, Katja Mellman, Lalita Pandit, Hogan Klarina, Priborkin, Javier Gutierrez, Rexach, Ellen Spolsky and Richard Walsh. Among the works analyzed are plays by Samuel Beckett, novels by Maxine Hong Kingston, music compositions by Igor Stravinsky, art by Jean Baptiste Simeon Chardin and films by Michael Haneke. Each of the essays shows in a systematic, clear and precise way how music, art, literature and film work in and of themselves and also how they are interconnected. Finally, while each of the essays is unique in style and methodological approach, together they show the way toward a unified knowledge of artistic creativity.

Language and Identity in Ancient Narratives Julia A. Snyder, 2014-06-24 When a Christian writer refers to Jesus as the Lord, what does it signify? Is it primarily a way of making a political or theological statement or might social concerns have had more influence on the writer's choice of words. Studies of early Christianity regularly depend on a nuanced understanding of lexical significance but current research often fails to consider social aspects of what words mean. Julia A. Snyder argues that methodological improvements are needed in how lexical significance in ancient Greek texts is determined based on an analysis of the relationship between speech patterns and addressee identity in the Acts of the Apostles, Acts of John, and Acts of Philip. She also illustrates how sociolinguistic variation contributes to characterization and the construction of Christian identity in the narratives, how it sheds light on the rewriting of ancient texts, and how it informs the question of whether apostolic narratives were produced for evangelistic purposes.

Lutheran Woman's Work, 1929 Monthly Bulletin of the Providence Public Library Providence Public Library (R.I.), 1898 The New and Complete American Encyclopædia; Or, Universal Dictionary of Arts and Sciences, 1806

The New Encyclopaedia, Or, Universal Dictionary of Arts and Sciences ... Alexander Aitchison, 1807 Kivalina Christine Shearer, 2011. For the people of Kivalina, Alaska, the price of further climate change denial could be the complete devastation of their lives and culture. Their village must be relocated to survive, and neither the fossil fuel giants nor the U.S. government are willing to take full responsibility.

Entering History Silke von der Emde, 2004. This book offers a thorough examination of the novels of Irmtraud Morgner (1933–1990), one of the most talented, compelling, and overlooked writers within East German feminist and avant-garde circles. Using a combination of theoretical approaches including Adorno's aesthetic theories and Bakhtinian analyses of dialogism and the carnivalesque, the author traces Morgner's engagement with postmodernist aesthetic strategies back to her efforts beginning in the early 1970s to pose questions about effective political practices. Morgner's work sheds new light on the fraught relationship between GDR intellectuals and the state, a hotly debated topic that marks most recent attempts to understand literary culture in the German Democratic Republic. Situating Morgner's fiction at the intersection of postmodern and feminist theory, this study also offers new evidence for viewing literature from the GDR as significantly more complex and aesthetically interesting than has been previously assumed.

Hellenism and the Primary History Robert Karl Gnuse, 2020-09-30. This collection of essays seeks to demonstrate that many biblical authors deliberately used Classical and Hellenistic Greek texts for inspiration when crafting many of the narratives in the Primary History. Through detailed analysis of the text, Gnuse contends that there are numerous examples of clear influence from late classical and Hellenistic literature. Deconstructing the biblical and Greek works in parallel, he argues that there are too many similarities in basic theme, meaning, and detail for them to be accounted for by coincidence or shared ancient tropes. Using this evidence, he suggests that although much of the text may originate from the Persian period, large parts of its final form likely date from the Hellenistic era. With the help of an original introduction and final chapter, Gnuse pulls his essays together into a coherent collection for the first time. The resultant volume offers a valuable resource for anyone working on the dating of the Hebrew Bible, as well as those working on Hellenism in the ancient Levant more broadly.
