

THE COUNTRY DIARY OF AN EDWARDIAN LADY

Edith Holden

On January 1, 1900, Edith Holden made the first entry in a diary which was to record the countryside through the changing seasons. Her words, all carefully written by hand, include her favorite poems, personal thoughts, and observations on the wildlife surrounding her home in the village of Olton, Warwickshire. The exceptionally beautiful paintings on every page of birds, butterflies, bees, and flowers reflect her deep love of nature; they have been executed with a naturalist's eye for detail and the sensitivity of an artist.

Edith Holden's diary of that year became a very special book for her, and she allowed no one to see it. For seventy years, this enchanting book had lain undiscovered until it was found recently on the shelves of an English country house. Now being published for the first time, this full-color facsimile edition recaptures all the freshness, charm, and beauty of the original.

The Country Diary of an Edwardian Lady is a book for all seasons, a gift for all times.

Australia's First Naturalists Penny Olsen, Lynette Russell, 2019-05-01 Would Blaxland Wentworth and Lawson have ever crossed the Blue Mountains without the help of the local Aboriginal people The invaluable role of local guides in this event is rarely recognised As silent partners Aboriginal Australians gave Europeans their first views of iconic animals such as the Koala and Superb Lyrebird and helped to unravel the mystery of the egg laying mammals the Echidna and Platypus Well into the twentieth century Indigenous people were routinely engaged by collectors illustrators and others with an interest in Australia's animals Yet this participation if admitted at all was generally barely acknowledged However when documented it was clearly significant Penny Olsen and Lynette Russell have gathered together Aboriginal peoples contributions to demonstrate the crucial role they played in early Australian zoology The writings of the early European naturalists clearly describe the valuable knowledge of the Indigenous people of the habits of Australia's bizarre to a European fauna Australia's First Naturalists is invaluable for those wanting to learn more about our original inhabitants contribution to the collection recognition and classification of Australia's unique fauna It heightens our appreciation of the previously unrecognised complex knowledge of Indigenous societies

The Naturalist and His 'beautiful Islands' David Russell Lawrence, 2014-10-28 I know no place where firm and paternal government would sooner produce beneficial results than in the Solomons Here is an object worthy indeed the devotion of one's life Charles Morris Woodford devoted his working life to pursuing this dream becoming the first British Resident Commissioner in 1897 and remaining in office until 1915 establishing the colonial state almost singlehandedly His career in the Pacific extended beyond the Solomon Islands He worked briefly for the Western Pacific High Commission in Fiji was a temporary consul in Samoa and travelled as a Government Agent on a small labour vessel returning indentured workers to the Gilbert Islands As an independent naturalist he made three successful expeditions to the islands and even climbed Mt Popomanaseu the highest mountain in Guadalcanal However his natural history collection of over 20 000 specimens held by the British Museum of Natural History has not been comprehensively examined The British Solomon Islands Protectorate was established in order to control the Pacific Labour Trade and to counter possible expansion by French and German colonialists It remaining an impoverished largely neglected protectorate in the Western Pacific whose economic importance was large scale copra production with its copra considered the second worst in the world This book is a study of Woodford the man and what drove his desire to establish a colonial protectorate in the Solomon Islands In doing so it also addresses ongoing issues not so much why the independent state broke down but how imperfectly it was put together in the first place The Act of Remembering John H. Mace, 2011-07-07 The first volume devoted solely to autobiographical memory retrieval The Act of Remembering serves as a primer of ideas methodology and central topics and lays the groundwork for future research in the field Contains new forward looking theories from leading international scholars Answers questions such as Do we retrieve memories according to when and where we need them How much conscious control do we have over what we remember Why are some people more likely than others to have intrusive flashbacks following a stressful event Pays particular attention to voluntary and involuntary recall The Invention of Nature Andrea Wulf, 2016-10-04 NATIONAL BESTSELLER A biography of Alexander von Humboldt the visionary German naturalist whose ideas changed the way we see the natural world and in the process created modern environmentalism From the acclaimed author of Magnificent Rebels Vivid and exciting Wulf's pulsating account brings this dazzling figure back into a dazzling much deserved focus The Boston Globe Alexander von Humboldt 1769 1859 was the most famous scientist of his age a visionary German naturalist and polymath whose discoveries forever changed the way we understand the natural world Among his most revolutionary ideas was a radical conception of nature as a complex and interconnected global force that does not exist for the use of humankind alone In North America Humboldt's name still graces towns counties parks bays lakes mountains and a river And yet the man has been all but forgotten In this illuminating biography Andrea Wulf brings Humboldt's extraordinary life back into focus his prediction of human induced climate change his daring expeditions to the highest peaks of South America and to the anthrax infected steppes of Siberia his relationships with iconic figures including Sim n Bol var and Thomas Jefferson and the lasting influence of his writings on Darwin Wordsworth Goethe Muir Thoreau and many others Brilliantly researched and stunningly written The Invention of Nature reveals the myriad ways in which Humboldt's ideas form the foundation of modern environmentalism and reminds us why they are as prescient and vital as ever Naturalist Histories Jamon Alex Halvaksz, Joshua A.

Bell, 2024-03-31 From early explorers to contemporary scientists naturalists have examined island flora and fauna of Oceania discovering new species carefully documenting the lives of animals and creating work central to the image of Oceania These discoveries and exploratory moves have had profound local and global impacts Often however local knowledge and communities are silent in the ethologies and histories that naturalists produce This volume analyzes the ways that Indigenous and non Indigenous naturalists have made island natures visible to a wider audience their relationship with the communities where they work as well as the unique natures that they explore and help make In staking out an area of naturalist histories

each contributor addresses the relationship between naturalists and Oceanic communities how these histories shaped past and present place and practices the influence on conservations and development projects and the relationship between scientific and indigenous knowledge The essays span across colonial and postcolonial frames tracing shifts in biological practice from the eighteenth and nineteenth century focus on taxonomy and discovery to the twentieth century disciplinary restructurings and new collecting strategies and contemporary concerns with biodiversity loss conservation and knowledge formation The production of scientific knowledge is typically seen in ethnographic accounts as oppositional contrasting Indigenous and western local and global objective and subjective Such dichotomous views reinforce differences and further exaggerate inequities in the production of knowledge More dangerously value distinctions become embedded in discussions of Indigenous identity rights and sovereignty Contributors acknowledge that these dichotomous narratives have dominated the approach of the scientific community while informing how social scientists have understood the contributions of Pacific communities The essays offer a nuanced gradient as historical narratives of scientific investigation in dialogue with local histories and reveal greater levels of participation in the creation of knowledge The volume highlights how power infuses the scientific endeavor and offers a distinct and diverse view of knowledge production in Oceania Combining senior and emerging international scholars the collection will be of interest to researchers in the social sciences history as well as biology and allied fields
