Karenfort,2011 The creation of synergy which is often illustrated as the 2 2 5 effect is a dominant motive as well as a key success factor for Mergers Acquisitions M A Inadequate expectations with respect to the synergistic potential can however easily result in an overrated acquisition price If the planned synergies later fail to materialize it will be increasingly hard for the acquiring firm to achieve positive value gains for its shareholders It is therefore vital to obtain a comprehensive understanding of the synergistic potential of a planned M A project This issue was addressed with a doctoral thesis investigating the underlying drivers of synergy realization in particular the concept of business relatedness which describes the similarity of firm attributes such as product market presence resource configuration and supply channel types Using a quantitative hypothesis testing survey design more than 300 M A consultants worldwide have been invited to evaluate past M A transactions with respect to their synergistic effects In contrast to earlier studies the relatedness of the merging firms is established as a multi dimensional concept considering various attributes of business relatedness simultaneously The degree of relatedness is measured using managerial perceptions which is a comparatively new measurement approach transferred from diversification research to the field of M A The individual dimensions of relatedness show a different effectiveness concerning synergy realization providing further support to recent contributions which advocate a multi dimensional conceptualization of business relatedness The study identifies dimensions of business relatedness and their underlying drivers which are particularly relevant to predictions concerning the synergistic potential The research project thus makes a valuable contribution to clarify the impact of relatedness on M A performance and provides important implications for practitioners regarding the eval

Business Transfers, Family Firms and Entrepreneurship Bérangère Deschamps,Audrey Missonier,Catherine Thévenard-Puthod,Paulette Robic,Dominique Barbelivien,2020-12-14 Business transfer refers to the transfer of ownership and leadership from one or more outgoing owner manager s to one or more incoming owner manager s Apart from all the company's material assets it presupposes that information relationships know how and social capital are also transmitted from one to the other. While much of the research on entrepreneurship has focused on new business ventures few studies have considered business transfers as an alternative way of embarking on entrepreneurial activities. Business Transfers: Family Firms and Entrepreneurship provides the international community with a more comprehensive state of the art of business transfer studies which will enrich readers' understanding. The business transfer is examined through different prisms: family businesses, internal business transfers to employees, external business transfers, and women in business transfers. This book deals with business transfer as a whole following a logic of continuity and sustainability for the transferred firm. It offers a refreshing point of view on business transfers in terms of both the process and the actors and from both the seller's and the buyer's sides. It presents the research on all types of business transfer including internal and external transfers and will be of interest to researchers, academics and students in the fields of entrepreneurship, small business management, family business and strategic management. It can also be instructive for practitioners and stakeholders involved in a business transfer.

Acquisitions and Corporate Strategy David R. King, 2022-04-19 Corporate restructuring acquisitions alliances and divestment is a visible form of corporate strategy For example firm investments in buying and selling assets exceed the gross domestic product of the majority of nations Most research in this area examines acquisitions but informing practice is limited by examining acquisitions in isolation or using a narrow focus For example a lingering problem is that average acquisition performance is consistently around zero suggesting a need to identify practically relevant relationships In addressing this need research on three fundamental questions is covered 1 How do acquisitions relate to other corporate strategy options 2 What helps to predict acquisition performance and 3 What are persistent acquisition research issues The first question is intended to overcome a research limitation that acquisitions are often examined independent of other corporate strategies including internal development alliances and divestment The second question addresses novel relationships associated with the primary focus of acquisition research in examining what drives acquisition performance The third question reflects on the underlying complexity of the phenomenon that makes it a challenge to identify what drives acquisition performance Overall the intent of presenting ideas on these fundamental questions is to illustrate promising areas for future research This book presents the latest state of knowledge on the topic and will be of interest to researchers academics and advanced students in the fields of strategic management international business and organizational studies
