

5. ORGANIZED LABOUR AND THE POLITICS OF STRATEGIC VOTING

Larry Savage

In April 2006, the Canadian Auto Workers (CAW) voted to sever its longstanding relationship with the New Democratic Party (NDP). The split was significant because the CAW had been a key player in the creation and development of the NDP and was an important source of funding for the party. Although the union-party relationship had been unravelling for some time amid a global crisis in social democratic politics, the immediate cause of the breakup centred around the union's strategic voting campaign, which included a high profile endorsement of Liberal Prime Minister Paul Martin at a CAW convention during the 2006 federal election campaign. While the CAW's decision to promote strategic voting in an effort to block the election of Conservative candidates was a new tactic for the union in the realm of federal politics, the CAW and other unions had been employing this strategy in Ontario provincial elections since 1999.

The increasing popularity of strategic voting among some unions represents a threat to the longstanding political alliance between the labour movement and the NDP and is gradually changing the landscape of party-union relations in Canada. This chapter situates growing union support for strategic voting within the broader context of neoliberal restructuring and argues that, while different union activists promote strategic voting for different reasons, some unions traditionally loyal to the NDP have primarily come to embrace the tactic as a method of shielding themselves from the worst excesses of neoliberal public policy. However, the chapter further argues that union-sponsored strategic voting campaigns in Ontario and at the federal level have not only failed to block the election of Conservative governments, but also undermined the labour movement's ability to act as an independent political force.

Blais, Nadeau, Gidengil and Nevitte define a strategic vote as "a vote for a party (candidate) that is not the preferred one, motivated by the intention to affect the outcome of the election" and explain that "this definition drives home the idea that a strategic vote is based on a combination of preferences and of expectations about the outcome of the election and on the belief that one's vote may be decisive" (Blais et al. 2001: 343). The Politics of Bargaining Jeremy Waddington, 2013-12-02 Tracing developments in British trade union structure over almost 100 years with specific reference to the merger process this book shows how the underlying processes of change are cyclical It therefore provides a backdrop for understanding some of the options for structural change that may be adopted by trade unions in the future Establishing a framework within which the historical development of the merger process may be understood the book identifies three central sets of relationships the bargaining position of unions relative to employers and the state the bargaining position of a union relative to competitor unions and factional bargaining within unions Collectively the three relationships are referred to as the politics of bargaining and are used to explain changes in the rate and character of trade union structural development Politics and Society in Israel Ernest Krausz, 2017-09-29 This series of the Israeli Sociological Society whose object is to identify and clarify the major themes that occupy social research in Israel today gathers together the best of Israeli social science investigation that was previously scattered in a large variety of international journals Each book in the series is introduced by integrative essays Each volume focuses on a particular topic the first volume seeks out the dynamics of conflict and integration in a new society the second volume is concerned with the sociology of a unique Israeli social institution the kibbutz The third volume presents sociological perspectives on political life and culture in Israel Articles by leading scholars deal with historical development political culture and ideology political institutions and behavior the social basis of politics and social change Volume III also includes a select bibliography Contributors to Volume III tentative Karl W Deutsch Yonathan Shapiro Dan Horowitz Moshe Lissak Daniel Elazar Asher Arian Charles Liebman Erik Cohen Yoram Peri Ephraim Yaar S Smooha

Industrial Relations in International Perspective Peter B Doeringer, 1981-07-30 Literary History of Canada William H. New, Carl Berger, Alan Cairns, Frances G. Halpenny, Henry Kreisel, Douglas Lochhead, Philip Stratford, Clara Thomas, 1990-12-15 This new volume of the Literary History of Canada covers the continuing development of English Canadian writing from 1972 to 1984 As with the three earlier volumes this book is an invaluable guide to recent developments in English Canadian literature and a resource for both the general reader and the specialist researcher The contributors to this volume are Laurie Ricou David Jackel Linda Hutcheon Philip Stratford Barry Cameron Balachandra Rajan Robert Fothergill Brian Parker Cynthia Zimmerman Frances Frazer Edith Fowke Bruce G Trigger Alan C Cairns Douglas Williams Carl Berger Shirley Neuman Raymond S Corteen and Frances G Halpenny The Political Economy of Interest Groups in the Legislative Process in Canada Fred Thompson, W. T. Stanbury, 1979 International Trade and Neoliberal Globalism Paul Bowles, Ray Broomhill, Teresa Gutiérrez-Haces, Stephen McBride, 2013-05-13 International trade must be analysed within the historical context within which it occurs Behind the statistics on trade flows lie power structures class interests and international hierarchies These change over time and how countries respond to them has critical implications for their citizens' well being In this book the history of trade in Australia Canada and Mexico is analysed Trade agreements are analysed in detail to explore the new forms that dependence and subordination have taken Arguing that the free trade agreements are significantly biased in favour of the United States the contributors analyse how each of the three countries are being subject to specific forms of peripheralisation and examine possible alternatives for a progressive future based on an integration in the global economy which enhances rather than limits democracy and social justice By providing an historical and critical account of trade policy in the three countries the book provides a welcome antidote to the ahistorical accounts of free trade supporters Labor Leaders in America Melvyn Dubofsky, Warren R. Van

Tine,1987 Here are the life stories of the men and women who have led the labor movement in America from Reconstruction to recent times from William H Sylvis the first major labor leader to Cesar Chavez who organized California s farm workers in the 1960s All of the chapters have been written expressly for this volume by leading authorities several of whom are authors of booklength biographies of their subjects Taken together these readable yet authoritative life studies provide a broad overview of the American labor movement that will appeal to the student and lay reader as well as to the specialist in social history and labor and industrial relations      Comparative Politics Mr. Rohit Manglik,2024-02-12

J.

Blackham,2013-04-15 This book traces the rise and fall of political philosophies since the 17th century The second part of the book shows how the general technique of cumulative learning from experience applies to social legislation and social services party politics to defence strategy and to the trends that follow the modern explosion of knowledge and capital The main argument is that social control is at its best a deliberate joint creation of and learning from social experience and in this sense political discipline although not the same as logical or scientific discipline is like them a submission to form not force The book gives a definite meaning to the idea of human progress and finds reason for a restoration of political hope and faith

The Arabian Peninsula Derek Hopwood,2015-07-24 Although the Arabian Peninsula is the heartland of Islam and of the Arab world for decades it did not receive the attention it deserves from scholars and writers The School of Oriental and African Studies University of London and the Middle East Centre of St Antony s College Oxford jointly organized a series of seminars culminating in a conference at which the papers in this volume first published in 1972 were discussed Together they constitute an authoritative statement of our present knowledge of several areas of the Peninsula with particular emphasis on the Gulf States Three chapters trace the history of Oman from pre Islamic times to the recent past and in so doing emphasize the theme of continuing conflict between sultan and imam Other chapters examine the Gulf and the Peninsula from the standpoint of inter Arab and of international relations The third section of the book is devoted to a discussion of the increasing rate of social change in the area and the final section deals with problems of oil and state and of economic development      Reshaping the Political Arena in Latin America Eduardo Silva,Federico Rossi,2018-05-22

Neoliberalism changed the face of Latin America and left average citizens struggling to cope in many ways Popular sectors were especially hard hit as wages declined and unemployment increased The backlash to neoliberalism in the form of popular protest and electoral mobilization opened space for leftist governments to emerge The turn to left governments raised popular expectations for a second wave of incorporation Although a growing literature has analyzed many aspects of left governments there is no study of how the redefinition of the organized popular sectors their allies and their struggles have reshaped the political arena to include their interests until now This volume examines the role played in the second wave of incorporation by political parties trade unions and social movements in five cases Argentina Bolivia Brazil Ecuador and Venezuela The cases shed new light on a subject critical to understanding the change in the distribution of political power related to popular sectors and their interests a key issue in the study of postneoliberalism      Gender, Environment and Participation in Politics Snehalata Panda,1994 With special reference to Orissa      Public Policy and Provincial Politics Marsha A.
