Emotions, Values, and Agency Christine Tappolet, 2016 The emotions we experience are crucial to who we are to what we think and to what we do But what are emotions exactly and how do they relate to agency The aim of this book is to spell out an account of emotions which is grounded on analogies between emotions and sensory experiences and to explore the implications of this account for our understanding of human agency The central claim is that emotions consist in perceptual experiences of values such as the fearsome the disgusting or the admirable A virtue of this account is that it affords a better grasp of a variety of interconnected phenomena such as motivation values responsibility and reason responsiveness In the process of exploring the implications of the Perceptual Theory of emotions several claims are proposed First emotions normally involve desires that set goals but they can be contemplative in that they can occur without any motivation Second evaluative judgements can be understood in terms of appropriate emotions in so far as appropriateness is taken to consist in correct representation Third by contrast with what Strawsonian theories hold the concept of moral responsibility is not response dependent but the relationship between emotions and moral responsibility is mediated by values Finally in so far as emotions are perceptions of values they can be considered to be perceptions of practical reasons so that on certain conditions acting on the basis of one's emotions can consist in responding to one's reasons

The Emotional Brain Joseph Ledoux, 2015-09-22 What happens in our brains to make us feel fear love hate anger joy Do we control our emotions or do they control us Do animals have emotions How can traumatic experiences in early childhood influence adult behavior even though we have no conscious memory of them In The Emotional Brain Joseph LeDoux investigates the origins of human emotions and explains that many exist as part of complex neural systems that evolved to enable us to survive One of the principal researchers profiled in Daniel Goleman's Emotional Intelligence LeDoux is a leading authority in the field of neural science In this provocative book he explores the brain mechanisms underlying our emotions mechanisms that are only now being revealed

The Biological Basis for Mind Body Interactions E.A. Mayer, C.B. Saper, 2000-02-03 The current volume focuses on several key aspects of mind brain body interactions in health and disease including specific examples of interactions between body and brain mechanisms underlying the response of the system to stressors the role of early life events in permanently biasing the responsiveness of the system and practical implications of mind body interactions in human disease The volume on Biological Basis for Mind Body Interactions is organized into 6 major sections each dealing with a unique aspect of the general topic After establishing the relationship between mind brain and emotions the first section deals with general neurobiological aspects mediating the effect of stress on various organ systems including the immune and cardiovascular system The second section covers the topic of how early life stressor can permanently alter responsiveness of the nervous system in animals and in man The third section deals with influences of the internal environment mediated by neuroendocrine and visceral afferent pathways on the CNS The fourth section which deals with influences of body on the brain focuses on mechanisms involved in perception and modulation of pain The fifth section deals with influences of the mind brain on the body with an emphasis on central and peripheral mechanisms of autonomic control of body functions The last section deals with a series of practical issues of mind body treatments including acupuncture breathing body work and meditation In addition issues such as cost effectiveness and research aspects are discussed Authors in this last section frequently refer to topics and mechanisms addressed in the early sections making it a truly integrated volume The unique aspect of the volume is the integration of state of the art research information on biological and practical aspects of mind brain body interactions It is based on the beliefs of the editors and participants that the traditional separation of mind and body in research and in treatment of human disease is obsolete and needs to be replaced with a new unifying paradigm Ironically this evolving paradigm shares many similarities with ancient pre Cartesian paradigms of health and disease
