

The Roman circus

The Circus Maximus was the biggest stadium in Rome and also the first circus in the city, built in the 6th century B.C. It was a hippodrome, the site for the cart races, a sport and spectacle that the Romans inherited from the Greeks. Originally, it was made of wood, but after successive rebuilding, the Emperor Trajan gave it its colossal shape with concrete and marble in 103 B.C. It is thought that it could have reached 150,000 spectators.

Slaves and horses

Usually, the races included seven pairs of wooden carts with four horses each. The chariots belonged to four different teams, identified by colours: green, red, blue and white. The riders were tied to the wheel of the chariot by a single strap, that is why they had to hold on to their horses instead of pulling. Chariot races, just like the gladiators, were popular. If they were successful, they could gain their freedom besides becoming well known celebrities. The most famous charioteer was Marcus Antonius Pulex, who retired at the age of 42 after winning 1,000 races.
