and remained in use until c 400 There are slight indications of activity on the site subsequent to that date Rebuilding of the fort in c 223 5 was accompanied by construction of an extensive vicus which was largely abandoned by the last quarter of the third century Foremost amongst the finds was a fragment of a military diploma issued to a soldier of cohorts Tungrorum There were numerous objects of iron and copper alloy A considerable quantity of pottery was recovered from a sequence of third and fourth century deposits Coin finds from the fort and vicus are compared and their significance discussed The Roman Fort at Ribchester John Henry Hopkinson,1928 Report on the Excavation of the Roman Fort at Richborough, Kent Joscelyn Plunket Bushe-Fox,1928 The Roman Fort at Gellygaer -- The Baths John Ward,1910 Housesteads Roman Fort - the Grandest Station Alan Rushworth,2014-02-15 Housesteads is one of the most important forts on Hadrian's Wall Extensive excavations were carried out between 1874 and 1981 by Newcastle University Combining the results with those of excavations done between 1959 and 1961 by Durham University we now have a complete plan of the north east part of the fort These excavations uncovered principally Buildings XIII XIV and XV plus stretches of rampart between the north and east gates along with a multitude of features and stratigraphic evidence revealing not only the sequences but also large finds assemblages In addition to shedding much light on the material culture of the fort's occupants and the structural and chronological relationships between various parts of the fort limited reinvestigation of Building XIV and excavation of the east end of Building XV enabled significant reinterpretation of the original conclusions reached by the Durham investigators including some redating of structures These excavations uncover the full 300 year period during which the fort formed an integral part of the Roman military frontier for much if not all of that time the base of the cohorts I Tungrorum milliaria peditum This report documents the excavations and gives full finds reports and the analysis of the evidence has enabled the authors to provide a full history of this part of the fort The Roman Fort on Hardknott, Known as Hardknott Castle ,1893 British and Irish Archaeology ,1994 Roman Fort ,2015-03-15 Be a fly on the wall in the time of the Romans Patrol with a windswept centurion eavesdrop on Roman nobles Candidus and Flavinus in the smelly toilets and dine at a tasty banquet These pages are packed full of up to date information about the world of the Romans from the latest archaeological discoveries With drawings notes squashed insects and messy fingerprints this book shows you history as it really happened A Roman Fort Fiona MacDonald,1993-09-01 Text and illustrations describe the construction of an ancient Roman fort and the lives of the soldiers who manned it in defense of the Empire Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress,Library of Congress. Office for Subject Cataloging Policy,2012 The Legionary Fortress at Wroxeter Graham Webster,2014-06-30 The Roman legionary fortress at Wroxeter Viroconium Cornoviorum was built on a strategic crossing point on the River Severn Though the site of the Roman town had long been known through the presence of upstanding ruins the major excavations reported here have shown how the town plan was dominated by the underlying fortress This fortress had been established by Legio XIV c AD 60 and had then been partially rebuilt c AD 66 when the legion was replaced by Legio XX The fortress was downgraded in the late 70s to become a depot for stores before final abandonment c AD 90 The excavations produced extensive evidence for the laying out and construction of the legionary earth and timber defences and of an area within the fortress to the north of the via praetorian where mess halls barrack blocks and a storehouse were found as well as considerable quantities of coins metalwork pottery and glass
