Kelly,Michael Burrows,2020 This volume is dedicated to eliciting the interactions between localities across late antique and early medieval Europe and the wider Mediterranean Significant research has been done in recent years to explore how late Roman and post Roman cities towns and other localities communicated vis vis larger structural phenomena such as provinces empires kingdoms institutions and so on This research has contributed considerably to our understanding of the place of the city in its context but tends to portray the city as a necessarily subordinate conduit within larger structures rather than an entity in itself or as a hermeneutical object of enquiry Consequently not enough research has been committed to examining how local people and communities thought about engaged with and struggled against nearby or distant urban neighbors Urban Interactions addresses this lacuna in urban history by presenting articles that apply a diverse spectrum of approaches from archaeological investigation to critical analyses of historiographical and historical biases and developmental consideration of antagonisms between ecclesiastical centers Through these avenues of investigation this volume elucidates the relationship between the urban centers and their immediate hinterlands and neighboring cities with which they might vie or collaborate This entanglement and competition whether subterranean or explicit across overarching political religious or other macro categories is evaluated through a broad geographical range of late Roman provinces and post Roman states to maintain an expansive perspective of developmental trends within and about the city

Regional Urban Systems in the Roman World, 150 BCE - 250 CE, 2019-12-16 The focus of Regional Urban Systems in the Roman World is on urban hierarchies and interactions in large geographical areas rather than on individual cities Based on a painstaking examination of archaeological and epigraphic evidence relating to more than 1 000 cities the volume offers comprehensive reconstructions of the urban systems of Roman Gaul North Africa Sicily Greece and Asia Minor In addition it examines the transformation of the settlement systems of the Iberian Peninsula and the central and northern Balkan following the imposition of Roman rule Throughout the volume regional urban configurations are examined from a rich variety of perspectives ranging from climate and landscape administration and politics economic interactions and social relationships all the way to region specific ways of shaping the townscapes of individual cities

Rome's Armies to the Death of Augustus Tony McArthur, 2024-09-30 National armies as we know them today are a comparatively recent development It has been assumed that the Romans had an army similar to the national institutions of advanced almost exclusively European powers at the end of the nineteenth century But the assumption was wrong as is the belief that changes seen in the armies can be explained because the Romans reformed their armies Up to the death of Augustus the Romans had no permanent military forces Roman armies were raised for particular campaigns and disbanded at their conclusion Repeated campaigns were conducted in places like northern Italy and Spain but the armies were always disbanded These armies were not seen by Romans as part of a national institution as modern armies are they were simply a part of the life of a Roman citizen like religion or elections These armies were more like a militia than a national army There is little evidence even of systematic training and what changes can be detected can be better explained by contingent adaptation to circumstances rather than reform The emperor Augustus is commonly seen as the originator of the imperial armies but it was an unintended outcome of a long life
