From Texas to the World and Back Mark Busby, Dick Heaberlin, 2001

Katherine Anne Porter's uneasy relationship with her home state has become increasingly important to discussions of her life and work. Born in the now-gone community of Indian Creek and raised in Kyle, Porter is tied to Texas by three major events that occurred during her career. In 1939 she expected to receive the Texas Institute of Letters Award for Best Texas Book, only to be insulted when the award went to folklorist J. Frank Dobie. In the 1950s she accepted an invitation to lecture at the University of Texas at Austin. During her visit to present that lecture, Porter began to believe that UT would build a library and name it after her, Texas's most famous literary daughter. But somehow she and UT President Harry Ransom miscommunicated, and Porter left her materials to the McKeldin Library at the University of Maryland. Finally, in 1976 she returned to Texas to receive recognition from Howard Payne University in Brownwood. On that trip she visited her mother's grave in the little cemetery at Indian Creek and decided that her remains on her death belonged beside her mother. So Porter finally returned to the state she had fled early in her life. The essays in this collection are based primarily upon a symposium held in May 1998 at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. The collection includes essays by both scholars of Porter's work and of Texas literature. Some concern specific aspects of her life, such as her love for her birthday or her marital record. Others focus on the main elements of her relationship with Texas, while still others deal with specific works, often relating them to her Texas heritage. This important addition to Porter studies provides new insight into the ways in which Porter's Texas heritage shaped her life and her fiction.

States of Disconnect Adhira Mangalagiri, 2023-01-24 Winner 2025 Anna Balakian Prize International Comparative Literature Association. In an interconnected world, literature moves through transnational networks, crosses borders, and bridges diverse cultures. In these ways, literature can bring people closer together. Today, as hopes for globalization wane and exclusionary nationalism is on the march, can literature still offer new ways of relating with others? Comparative literature has long been under the spell of circulation, contact, connectivity, and mobility. What if it instead sought out their antitheses? States of Disconnect examines the breakdown of transnationalism through readings of literary texts that express aversion to pairing ideas of China and India Focusing on practices of comparison Adhira Mangalagiri considers how these texts articulate the undesirability or impossibility of relating with national others tracing portrayals of violence silence and distance She proposes the concept of disconnect a crisis of transnationalism perceptible in moments when a connection is severed interrupted or disavowed Despite their apparent insularity texts of disconnect offer possibilities for relating ethically across national borders while resisting both narrow nationalisms and globalized habits of thought Reading a variety of largely untranslated twentieth century Chinese and Hindi short stories novels and poems Mangalagiri develops three new strategies for comparison friction ellipses and contingency that together comprise a critical vocabulary of disconnect Foregrounding transnationalism's discontents States of Disconnect offers a different path by which literary texts can cultivate a critical sensibility for making sense of a world rife with division

Romance in Post-Socialist Chinese Television Huike Wen, 2020-07-13 This book is about how the representations of romantic love in television reflect the change and the dilemma of the dominant values in post socialist Chinese mainstream culture These values mainly center on the impact of individualism consumerism capitalism and neoliberalism often referred to as western culture on the perception of romantic love and self realization in China The book focuses on how romantic love which plays a vital role in China's ideologically highly restricted social environment by empowering people with individual choice change and social mobility must struggle and compromise with the reality specifically the values and problems emerging in a transitional China The book also examines how the representation of romantic love celebrates ideals individual freedom passion and gender equality and promises changes based on individual diligence and talent while simultaneously obstructing the fulfillment of these ideals
