dark fairytale that reclaims the terrors and obstacles of his past revealing the resilient and courageous person that he is today

Alternate Roots Christine Scodari, 2018-06-14 In recent years the media has attributed the increasing numbers of people producing family trees to the aging of baby boomers a sense of mortality a proliferation of Internet genealogy sites and a growing pride in ethnicity A spate of new genealogy themed television series and Internet driven genetic ancestry testing services have now emerged capitalizing on the mapping of the human genome in 2003 This genealogical trend poses a need for critical analysis particularly along lines of race and ethnicity In contextual ways as she intersperses an account of her own journey chronicling her Italian and Italian American family history Christine Scodari lays out how family historians can understand intersections involving race and or ethnicity and other identities inflecting families Through engagement in and with genealogical texts and practices such as the classic television series Roots Ancestry.com and Henry Louis Gates's documentaries Scodari also explains how to interpret their import to historical and ongoing relations of power beyond the family Perspectives on hybridity and intersectionality gesture toward making connections not only between and among identities but also between localized findings and broader contexts that might given only cursory attention seem tangential to chronicling a family history Given current tools texts practices cultural contexts and technologies Scodari's study determines whether a critical genealogy around race ethnicity and intersectional identities is viable She delves into the implications of adoption orientation and migration while also investigating her own genealogy examining the racial ethnic experiences of her forebears and positioning them within larger cross cultural contexts There is little research on genealogical media in relation to race and ethnicity Thus Scodari blends cultural studies critical media studies and her own genealogy as a critical pursuit to interrogate issues bound up in the nuts and bolts of engaging in family history alizing on the mapping of the human genome in 2003 This genealogical trend poses a need for critical analysis particularly along lines of race and ethnicity In contextual ways Christine Scodari lays out how family historians can understand intersections involving race and or ethnicity within families Through engagement in and with genealogical texts and practices such as the classic television series Roots Ancestry.com and Henry Louis Gates documentaries Scodari also explains how to decipher their import to historical and ongoing relations of power beyond the family Perspectives on hybridity and intersectionality gesture toward making connections not only between and among identities but also between localized findings and broader contexts that might given only cursory attention seem tangential to chronicling a family history Given current tools texts practices cultural contexts and technologies Scodari's study determines whether a critical genealogy around race ethnicity and intersectional identities is viable She delves into the implications of adoption orientation and migration while also investigating her own genealogy examining the racial ethnic experiences of her forebears and positioning them within larger cross cultural contexts There is little research on genealogical media in relation to race and ethnicity Thus Scodari blends cultural studies critical media studies and her own genealogy as a critical pursuit to interrogate issues bound up in the nuts and bolts of engaging in family history
