Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association American Veterinary Medical Association, 2005 Vols for 1915-49 and 1956 include the Proceedings of the annual meeting of the association The Animal Experimentation Debate David E. Newton, 2013-05-09 Reviewing the topic from antiquity to the present day this book examines the debate over the use of animals in research in a fair and balanced way. The debate over the use of nonhuman animals in experimental research has gone on for centuries and it continues as vigorously today as it ever has. In fact in the last decade the controversy has intensified making animal testing a topic at the highest level of debate of any socioscientific issue in the United States. This book presents all sides of the issue so that readers can come to their own conclusions as to the morality and validity of animal experimentation and provides biographies of individuals and descriptions of organizations that have been involved in the debate over the centuries. Additionally it documents the historical shift in thinking that made animal experimentation commonplace between the time of the ancient Greeks and the 19th century to the mindset of some who argue for an end to the practice and alternative ways of conducting medical experimentation to benefit human health Proceedings of the Second International Symposium on Rehabilitation and Physical Therapy in Veterinary Medicine Darryl L. Millis, David Levine (Veterinary physical therapist), 2002 It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the Second International Symposium on Rehabilitation and Physical Therapy in Veterinary Medicine. This symposium has brought together professionals from around the world to explore new directions in the care prevention and rehabilitation of injuries to animals. As you can see the program explores current topics in clinical and basic research as well as clinical practice emphasizing the multidisciplinary interests of the audience. Continued interaction between the physical therapy and veterinary professions is vital to the continued development and advancement of this field and we encourage participants to dialogue and learn from each other.
