contexts How might distance learning be considered anew These challenges and opportunities for institutional growth will be closely considered by this group of authors from educational leadership social work curriculum development and higher education itself They address key world regions and sub topics ranging from online education in refugee camps to the Brazilian and Colombian responses to the emerging crisis in Venezuela Scholars researching refugee education cross nationally often find that refugee education literature is parsed by disciplinary field This book in contrast offers a comprehensive multi disciplinary overview of refugee education issues around the world These perspectives also provide key insights for faculty and staff at higher education institutions that currently enroll asylees or refugees as well as those that may do so in the future

Feminist Pedagogy in Higher Education Tracy Penny Light,Jane Nicholas,Renée Bondy,2015-07-31 In this new collection contributors from a variety of disciplines provide a critical context for the relationship between feminist pedagogy and academic feminism by exploring the complex ways that critical perspectives can be brought into the classroom This book discusses the processes employed to engage learners by challenging them to ask tough questions and craft complex answers wrestle with timely problems and posit innovative solutions and grapple with ethical dilemmas for which they seek just resolutions Diverse experiences interests and perspectives together with the various teaching and learning styles that participants bring to twenty first century universities necessitate inventive and evolving pedagogical approaches and these are explored from a critical perspective The contributors collectively consider the implications of the theory practice divide which remains central within academic feminism s role as both a site of social and gender justice and as a part of the academy and map out some of the ways in which academic feminism is located within the academy today

Hard Labour? Academic Work and the Changing Landscape of Higher Education Tanya Fitzgerald,Julie White,Helen Gunter,2012-01-05 Drawing on data from Australia England and New Zealand this book addresses how neo liberal policies of successive governments have decreased autonomy of academics and increased regimes of surveillance radically altering how academics think about and engage in their intellectual work

The Transformational Potential of Higher Education Inclusion Jesús Humberto Pineda Olivieri,2017 In the field of higher education research one of the most fascinating observations is the consistent and permanent expansion of higher education systems worldwide since the end of the Second World War Undoubtedly the predominant approach to address these developments has been through quantitative analysis as well as international comparisons The following work examines the particularities of the Venezuelan context with the aim of identifying specific features of this worldwide phenomenon in this South American case Through a combination of qualitative methods the author proposes a biographical approach for the study of higher education inclusion processes which takes into account the perspectives and experiences of those who have been targeted by an ambitious higher education expansion process The most distinctive feature of this work would be its methodological contribution to the field of higher education research One could also argue that the ethnographic account of the Bolivarian Missions of education in Chavez's Venezuela is both original and unprecedented. Furthermore, the writing approach bridges the interests of both academics/practitioners of the field and members of the general public. Education and Society Rachel

Brooks, 2018-10-04 This new textbook offers a wide-ranging discussion of the key debates within the sociology of education. Covering everything from policymaking and the curriculum to class, ethnicity and gender, and the ways that they and other social divisions intersect to produce inequalities, this timely publication provides a much-needed contribution to the study of education's vital role in contemporary society. With examples drawn from such diverse contexts as Australian pre-schools, Finnish higher education institutions and English further education colleges, the text presents students with an international perspective and encourages them to engage critically with some of the core questions that lie at the heart of the topic: what is the purpose of education? who decides what formal education entails? and what impact does education have on both society and individuals? Rachel Brooks's extensive knowledge of decades of scholarly work in education and sociology ensures the book is academically rigorous throughout, while the final chapter on emerging educational research means it is fully up to date. The text's accessible style is ideally suited to all those new to the topic and studying the sociology of education for the first time, whether this be from departments of sociology, childhood studies, social policy or a range of other social science disciplines. Supporting the Student Journey into Higher Education Wendy Garnham, Nina Walker, 2024-03-08 This book will provide an in-depth look at the development, functionality and appeal of pre-arrival platforms to aid transition into higher education, including a range of provisions. Ensuring a smooth transition into higher education study is increasingly seen as key to both retention and success, both in the initial weeks of study and beyond. Pre-arrival platforms offer students a range of opportunities which might include the chance to familiarise themselves with the practices and policies of their new institution before teaching begins. This book will explore these platforms from three different angles: their development, use and appeal to diverse audiences in higher education, and case studies illustrating their incorporation into practice. It will provide a comprehensive overview of not only the different ways in which such platforms add value to the transition process, but also the way they embrace diversity and widening participation in higher education from the very beginning of an individual's higher education career. With chapters written by individuals from a variety of roles in higher education, this text will also provide the reader with an insight into issues arising from the use of these platforms. It will be essential reading for educational, academic and staff developers working with departments and their institutions to develop their support structure for new students, as well as for those directly involved in widening access/participation programmes. Developing Your Teaching Peter Kahn, 2006-09-27 For new as well as more experienced lecturers, this motivational book is packed with accessible and practical advice grounded in learning theory. The authors show how to take a step back, reflect on your current practice and take measures to improve it. A wide range of creative and innovative ideas are explored, including using feedback from peers and students, turning your understanding into practice, getting involved in support networks, working with mentors.

using teaching to progress your career Mindfulness and Learning Terry Hyland,2011-08-21 In recent decades education at all levels has been seriously impoverished by a growing obsession with standards targets skills and competences According to this model only a circumscribed range of basic cognitive skills and competences are the business of education whose main role is to provide employability credentials for people competing for jobs in the global economy The result is a one dimensional economistic and bleakly utilitarian conception of the educational task In Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education Terry Hyland advances the thesis that education stands in need of a rejuvenation of its affective function the impact it has on the emotional social moral and personal development of learners Drawing on the Buddhist conception of mindfulness he advances a powerful argument for redressing this imbalance by enhancing the affective domain of learning Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education shows how the concept and practice of mindfulness non judgmental present moment awareness and experience can enrich learning at all levels Mindfulness thus contributes to the enhanced achievement of general educational goals and helps remedy the gross deficiency of the affective emotional aspects of contemporary theory and practice The author outlines a mindfulness based affective education MBAE programme and shows how it might be introduced into educational provision from the early years to adult education with a view to harmonising the cognitive affective balance across the system
