Books Out Loud, 2004 Fire in the Stone Nicholas Ruddick, 2012-01-01 The genre of prehistoric fiction contains a surprisingly large and diverse group of fictional works by American British and French writers from the late nineteenth century to the present that describe prehistoric humans

Nicholas Ruddick explains why prehistoric fiction could not come into being until after the acceptance of Charles Darwin's theories and argues that many early prehistoric fiction works are still worth reading even though the science upon which they are based is now outdated. Exploring the history and evolution of the genre, Ruddick shows how prehistoric fiction can offer fascinating insights into the possible origins of human nature, sexuality, racial distinctions, language, religion, and art. The book includes discussions of well-known prehistoric fiction by H. G. Wells, Jules Verne, J. H. Rosny A. n., Jack London, William Golding, Arthur C. Clarke, and Jean M. Auel, and reminds us of some unjustly forgotten landmarks of prehistoric fiction. It also briefly covers such topics as the recent boom in prehistoric romance, notable prehistoric fiction for children and young adults, and the most entertaining movies featuring prehistoric humans. The book includes illustrations that trace the changing popular images of cave men and women over the past 150 years.
