Documentary as Autoethnography: A Case Study Based on the Changing Surnames of Women Hande Çayır, 2020-10-06 In a system where my identity that is to say my surname was taken from me when I got married an act supported by both the state and families I simply became a wife When I refused both that stereotype and the marital surname I became curious about other women's decisions I made a politically grounded documentary promoting individual power and shared it via old and new media The seventeen minute documentary Yok Anasın Soyad Mrs His Name 2012 a form of self narrative that places the self within a social context had an impact on the community and created a collaborative meaning My filmmaking experience spread the seeds gave birth to this book created a researcher me in this case and as such theory in practice and practice in theory go hand in hand Women in Turkey are legally required to change their surnames when they marry and divorce If they want to continue using their ex husband's surname after the divorce they must seek permission from both him and the state Has this unfair policy affected women financially Has the forced surname change been a barrier for women's careers What about the protection of equal legal social and economic rights Autoethnographic researchers analyse their subjectivity and life experiences in which they treat the self as other This examination of social cultural structures also calls attention to the issues of power The interdisciplinary nature of this enquiry highlights the crucial human rights debate of the link between surnames and identity and also focuses on the feminist maxim the personal is political In short the private inevitably became public in a process that bridged the autobiographical personal cultural social and political I believe that eventually through this process my story became yours
