Richard Wright Michel Fabre, 1990 This bibliography of Richard Wright's library and reading serves as a key to understanding the development philosophies and aesthetics of this great writer and provides accurate information for the study of intertextuality in his works Richard Wright born in Mississippi in 1908 was largely self-taught His only formal schooling was high school As he recounts in Black Boy he used a white friend's library card at the Memphis Public Library where blacks were not allowed That books were almost living companions for Wright is easily understandable Through books and later through relationships with writers he broadened his perspectives his understanding of society and the very craft of writing In the history of Richard Wright perhaps more than with other writers a knowledge of what he actually read and of what authors he preferred is essential in explaining his intellectual development Michel Fabre Wright's biographer and foremost Wright scholar details the volumes in Wright's library and the facts of Wright's reading habits This listing of books that formed and influenced him includes second-hand books he bought while living in extreme poverty in Chicago some borrowed books never returned books purchased in New York and Paris books Wright deemed required reading for a growing novelist gift books and others in a comprehensive list on such subjects as contemporary American literature classic European works criminology psychiatry and social sciences In compiling this listing Fabre goes beyond the actual contents of Wright's library for he includes also titles drawn from references in Wright's works and from accounts of people who knew him and his reading habits Included also is an appendix that collects for the first time reviews written by Wright his prefaces forewords and blurbs They show his appreciation of diverse genres and styles although his ideological commitment remained the same In them one sees Wright as an author ready to help younger writers black and white American and French

Maryland Wits and Baltimore Bards Frank R. Shivers, 1998-01-29 In the first comprehensive literary history of Baltimore and Maryland Frank R Shivers Jr explores the region's long overlooked but substantial contribution to American letters In picture and story Shivers's lively account ranges from the colonial satire of Ebenezer Cook to the national anthem of Francis Scott Key to the acclaimed works of Poe Melville Fitzgerald and more 48 illustrations

Writing and Politics in Franco's Spain Barry Jordan, 2025-10-01 Between 1940 and 1965 Spain was almost entirely cut off from the intellectual life of western Europe Within Spain itself opposition writers believed that a committed literature could take over the role of the press in a democratic society dealing with daily realities and social issues as well as with political questions This was the background to the emergence in the 1950s of the novela social Spain's post-war realist novel First published in 1990 Writing and Politics in Franco's Spain explores the early development of this literary movement and reveals the beginnings of the novela social as a complex dynamic gradually unfolding process Making use of new research the author charts the ways in which authors involved in the novela social formed groups around certain literary and cultural reviews of the period He traces the influences which provided the early social novelists with theoretical and practical guidance for their writing pointing especially to Sartre Italian neo realism and the novels of North American writers like Hemingway and Dos Passos A major reassessment of an important literary movement Writing and Politics in Franco s Spain is deeply concerned with relations between texts contexts and wider social and cultural processes It will be of special value to students of contemporary Spanish literature and history

Bogart and Huston Nat Segaloff,2025-08-05 From 1941 to 1953 director John Huston and actor Humphrey Bogart made one classic film after another from The Maltese Falcon to The African Queen Here is the story of their close but combative friendship that produced some of the best movies ever made Every time they made a movie together they made a classic or so it seemed for star Humphrey Bogart and writer director John Huston Their six collaborations from 1941 and 1953 include many of the golden age hits from Hollywood s fabled film legacy The Maltese Falcon Across the Pacific The Treasure of the Sierra Madre Key Largo The African Queen and Beat the Devil At the same time both men led fiercely separate lives except when they were making pictures together Sometimes they agreed and sometimes they argued always keeping their eyes on the results What did each man bring to the collaboration and how did their six films together reflect their disparate personalities Their friendship was as dramatic as any of their movies It survived nine marriages a world war the blacklist leeches alcohol and Jack L Warner Here is the story of these two legendary talents their films their lives their foes and their remarkable devotion to each other
