Handbook of Blended Shore Education Gabriele Strohshen,2008-11-07 As we confront the future of our professional endeavors we tend to rely with confidence on longstanding and widely honored assumptions about the world and ourselves We believe we have accumulated sturdy structures of knowledge effective practices and sound values Yet we rely on these resources with scant consciousness that in the long run our assumptions practices and values may not only be inimical to the viability of our profession but as well oppressive in their effects on others There is at least one assumption common across many professions and cultures that is of particular significance It is the assumption that the world is made up of discrete entities or units There are not only the species of plants and animals for example but there is me as opposed to you us vs them my business enterprise in competition with yours our nation or religion and yours And with this assumption of separable units we assemble ways of sustaining and protecting those units of which we feel a part We erect buildings laws schools governments and armies to ensure that what is inside the boundary will flourish and what is outside cannot threaten us In effect the assumption of a world of independent entities establishes the way in which we understand and conduct ourselves within relationships The Virtual Student Rena M. Palloff,Keith Pratt,2003-03-10 The Virtual Student is an essential resource for online educators working with students in higher education and training settings The authors offer an overview of the key issues of student online learning and provide a practical guide to working with online students The book covers a broad range of topics including learning styles multicultural issues evaluation retention and the challenging problems of plagiarism and cheating The Student's Guide to Successful Project Teams William A Kahn,2014-06-03 It is common for undergraduate and graduate students across various disciplines to be placed on teams and assigned group project research reports and presentations which require them to work together For example a psychology course requires teams to develop conduct analyze and present the result of their experiments a marketing course requires student project teams to prepare marketing plans and present their conclusions and an organizational behavior course forms teams for the purpose of researching the cultures of different organizations and making presentations about their findings This new guidebook will be a core text on how to help student project teams confront and successfully resolve issues tasks and problems Sections include conceptual material stories and illustrations and exercises Students and teachers in Organizational Behavior Management Marketing and all psychology disciplines will find this book of interest
