

Chamber Music and Organization Theory: Some Typical Organizational Phenomena Seen Under the Microscope

Luigi Maria Sicca

Dipartimento di Ricerche e Studi Aziendali, Università degli Studi di Salerno

In this paper I suggest, on the one hand, that organization theory offers an interpretation of the reality of arts producing organizations and, on the other, that the empirical analysis of these realities can supply new input for organization theory. As a practical example of artistic production I refer to an international chamber music festival. Close inspection of chamber music will reveal characteristics that apply to any type of organization. I begin by looking at the nature of arts management and the arts manager. I go on to analyse the characteristics of the production process in the performing arts, which can be seen as communication taking place on three levels: between audience and performers (concept of 'prosumer'); within the performing group ('listening ability'); between the author of the written text and the performer/interpreter ('concept of value'). I finish by showing how in a symbolic-cultural framework the features identified in the paper can feed back into organization studies.

Time present and time past
Are both perhaps present in time future, and time future contained in time past.
T.S. Eliot, Four Quartets

Foreword

This paper sets out to analyse the production processes in the performing arts. In the first section we look at some general characteristics of arts management. In terms of organization theory, there are three concepts which are central to the production of live art forms, and these will be investigated in the subsequent sections:
