Gender, Kabbalah, and the Reformation Yvonne Petry, 2004-01-01 This study examines the thought of Guillaume Postel 1510 1581 a French religious thinker who relied on Jewish Kabbalah and its mystical understanding of gender to argue that a female messiah had arrived who would heal the political and religious conflicts of sixteenth century Europe

Christology and Metaphysics in the Seventeenth Century Richard Cross, 2022 Richard Cross explores the largely uncharted territory of seventeenth century Christology paying close attention to its metaphysical and semantic presuppositions and consequences He shows that theologians of all stripes develop and expand theories that are associated respectively with the medieval theologians Thomas Aquinas and Duns Scotus Italian and French Dominicans follow Aquinas closely read through the lens of Cardinal Cajetan But most Iberian Dominicans incorporate Suarez's theory of modes into their account and Suarez whose account is a modification of Scotus's is in turn followed by his fellow Jesuits Lutherans use Cajetan's account to fill explanatory gaps in their own accounts and Reformed theologians by and large adapt the position associated with Scotus The study ends with an account of Leibniz's Christology in its historical and conceptual context

Human and Animal Cognition in Early Modern Philosophy and Medicine Stefanie Buchenau, Roberto Lo Presti, 2018-10-26 From the sixteenth to the eighteenth century new anatomical investigations of the brain and the nervous system together with a renewed interest in comparative anatomy allowed doctors and philosophers to ground their theories on sense perception the emergence of human intelligence and the soul body relationship in modern science They investigated the anatomical structures and the physiological processes underlying the rise differentiation and articulation of human cognitive activities and looked for the anatomical roots of the specificity of human intelligence when compared to other forms of animal sensibility This edited volume focuses on medical and philosophical debates on human intelligence and animal perception in the early modern age providing fresh insights into the influence of medical discourse on the rise of modern philosophical anthropology Contributions from distinguished historians of philosophy and medicine focus on sixteenth century zoological psychological and embryological discourses on man the impact of mechanism and comparative anatomy on philosophical conceptions of body and soul and the key status of sensibility in the medical and philosophical enlightenment Anatomy of Transcendence: Mental Excess and Rapture in the Thought and Life of Thomas Aquinas Peter

Kwasniewski, 2025-02-12 Man is created by God for an eternal glory that surpasses his nature Even now he is called to a graced participation in divine life that draws him above and beyond himself conforming him to the one in whose image he is made In his theological writings Thomas Aquinas explored this order of excess that characterizes God's elevation of the rational creature discerning in its most extreme instances mystical transport ecstasy and rapture the essential contours of the ordering of Christian life to the transcendent union of beatific vision This same ordering is witnessed in Aquinas's own experience where toward the end of his life he was raised to a contemplative vision surpassing all language and further study

In Anatomy of Transcendence Peter A Kwasniewski examines the intersection of Aquinas's theological writings and mysticism establishing a vocabulary and topography for the Angelic Doctor's study and experience of ecstasy and excess in God's raising of the human mind to divine things While drawing on the full scope of the saint's corpus the study pays particular attention to his engagement with Scripture especially the rapture of Paul related in 2 Corinthians thus contributing to the recovery of Aquinas not only as spiritual theologian but also as biblical theologian

Communicatio Idiomatum Richard Cross, 2019-10-03 This study offers a radical reinterpretation of the sixteenth century Christological debates between Lutheran and Reformed theologians on the ascription of divine and human predicates to the person of the incarnate Son of God the communicatio idiomatum It does so by close attention to the arguments deployed by the protagonists in the discussion and to the theologians' metaphysical and semantic assumptions explicit and implicit It traces the central contours of the Christological debates from the discussion between Luther and Zwingli in the 1520s to the Colloquy of Montbliard in 1586 Richard Cross shows that Luther's Christology is thoroughly Medieval and that innovations usually associated with Luther in particular that Christ's human nature comes to share in divine attributes should be ascribed instead to his younger contemporary Johannes Brenz The discussion is highly sensitive to the differences between the various Luther groups followers of Brenz and the different factions aligned in varying ways with Melancthon and to the differences between all of these and the Reformed theologians By locating the Christological discussions in their immediate Medieval background Cross also provides a comprehensive account of the continuities and discontinuities between the two eras In these ways it is shown that the standard interpretations of the Reformation debates on the matter are almost wholly mistaken

Pilgrimage in the Netherlands Jan van Herwaarden, 2021-10-25 This volume is divided into four sections late medieval devotion in the Netherlands medieval Christian pilgrimage the medieval cult of St James the Great and Erasmiana Variety and coherence sound the keynote in the title and the contents of the book Religious concepts and expressions of religious faith such as pilgrimages and indulgences are representative of late medieval Christianity In this book they refer specifically to the medieval cult of St James the Great while for Erasmus they were an object of his critical consideration The whole book can be read in the light of the debate about the tension between an appreciation for outward signs of faith and the inward experience of religious belief which Erasmus considered an absolute necessity
