Romantic Love and Sexual Behavior Victor C. de Munck,1998-04-16 Westerners believe that love makes life worth living that sex is a natural desire different in kind from love and that only cynics reduce our love life to a calculation of economic or genetic factors In this volume essays explore these and other assumptions about the relationship between romantic love and sex This represents the first interdisciplinary social science study of love and sex Contributors ask and answer questions such as Is love just sex idealized or is it a transcendent and divine emotion Is love a cultural construct that is shared by members of the same culture or is it a matter of personal taste What keeps promiscuous people from using condoms even when they know they are at risk Are black professional men so rare that their conceptions of love and sex differ from those of white professional men Are brutal sexual fantasies an exclusively male domain and are they always excluded from love fantasies among normal adolescents Is divorce a culturally induced response to evolutionary reproductive strategies that compel individuals to maximize their genetic legacy Are marriages or relationships less satisfying or stable when an actual mate falls short of the fantasy of the ideal mate Is there a universal core to love and sex that is camouflaged by other cultural norms such as modesty and sexual segregation Is rape perceived as more acceptable when the rapist says he was motivated by love What do cult movements and romantic love have in common As they attempt to answer these and other questions the authors extend our understanding of the variety of ways that love and sex are conceptualized connected or separated

 Professor of Psychology Faculdade de Psicologia e de Ciências da Educação Universidade do Porto Portugal Handbook of Gender Research in Psychology Joan C. Chrisler, Donald R. McCreary, 2010-03-12 Donald R McCreary and Joan C Chrisler The Development of Gender Studies in Psychology Studies of sex differences are as old as the field of psychology and they have been conducted in every subfield of the discipline There are probably many reasons for the popularity of these studies but three reasons seem to be most prominent First social psychological studies of person perception show that sex is especially salient in social groups It is the first thing people notice about others and it is one of the things we remember best Fiske Haslam Stangor Lynch Duan Glass 1992 For example people may not remember who uttered a witty remark but they are likely to remember whether the quip came from a woman or a man Second many people hold firm beliefs that aspects of physiology suit men and women for particular social roles Men's greater upper body strength makes them better candidates for manual labor and their greater height gives the impression that they would make good leaders i.e. people we look up to Women's reproductive capacity and the caretaking tasks e.g. breastfeeding baby minding that accompany it make them seem suitable for other roles that require gentleness and nurturance Third the logic that underlies hypothesis testing in the sciences is focused on difference Researchers design their studies with the hope that they can reject the null hypothesis that experimental groups do not differ
