Romanticism, Gender, and Violence Nowell Marshall, 2013-07-22 Combining queer theory with theories of affect psychoanalysis and Foucauldian genealogy Romanticism Gender and Violence Blake to George Sodini theorizes performative melancholia a condition where regardless of sexual orientation overinvestment in gender norms causes subjects who are unable to embody those norms to experience socially expected normal gender as something unattainable or lost This perceived loss causes an ambivalence within the subject that can lead to self inflicted violence masochism suicide or violence toward others sadism murder Reading a range of Romantic poetry and novels between 1790 1820 but ultimately moving beyond the period to show its contemporary cultural relevance through readings of Eliot's The Mill on the Floss Virginia Woolf's Mrs Dalloway Andrew Holleran's Dancer from the Dance and George Sodini's 2009 murder suicide case this study argues that we need to move beyond focusing on bullying teens and LGBT students and look at our cultural investment in gender normativity itself Doing so allows us to recognize that the relationship between non normative gender performance and violence is not simply a gay problem it is a human problem that can affect people of any sex sexuality age race or ethnicity and one that we can trace back to the Romantic period Bringing late 18th century novels into conversation with both canonical and lesser known Romantic poetry allows us to see that as people whose performance of gender occasionally exceeds the normal we too often internalize these norms and punish ourselves or others for our inability to adhere to them Contrasting paired chapters by male and female authors and including sections on failed romantic coupling melancholic femininities melancholic masculinities failed gender performance and madness and ending with a section titled After Romanticism this study works on multiple levels to complicate previous understandings of gender and violence in Romanticism while also offering a model for contemporary issues relating to gender and violence among people who fail to perform gender according to social norms
