The Publishers Weekly ,1919    The Changing World of a Bombay Muslim Community, 1870 - 1945 Salima Tyabji,2024-01-16 Muslims formed a disparate and unwieldy community in Bombay in the nineteenth century The Islam that was professedly held in common by various groups could barely provide a sense of unity or cohesion to people so widely diverse in terms of language customs and also of forms and practices of belief By the middle of the nineteenth century a class of wealthy ship owners ship builders and merchants belonging to the varied communities that constituted the city of which

Muslims formed an important part had emerged This class was outward looking modern and generally reformist in outlook Gujarati or Maharashtrian its goals of social reform education as well as political awareness were gradually beginning to be perceived as goals held across communities and increasingly across different regions The questions that were being raised in the social turmoil of the period amongst Hindus were over issues of female education the age of marriage widow remarriage and female seclusion These issues were not foreign to the Muslim community and the part played by Muslim leaders in Bombay in discussing and negotiating them was not an insignificant one taking into account the size and relative backwardness of the community Within this context this book traces the evolving identity of a Bombay family and its changing social and political views in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries using three main sources their family journals an individual memoir journal and letters written home from Europe      Country Life Henry Hodgman
