The Merry-go-round Rose Fyleman, 1925 The New Merry-go-round, 1925 Guide to the Gardens of the Zoological Society of London London Zoo (London, England), 1869 Object-Based Learning Thomas Kador, 2025-09-04

Object Based Learning provides a concise overview of some of the most important approaches to material culture and object analysis in plain and easily understandable language that is equally accessible to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as lecturers. The textbook is organised in a clear and easy to follow way; each chapter is filled with practical case studies, exercises, and several diagrams to illustrate important arguments and approaches. The succinct and practically focused discussion of the main issues relating to exhibiting objects and curatorial practice brings together diverse but complementary topics such as the history of collecting, understanding audiences, accessibility, digital media technologies, and ethics. Each chapter includes learning objectives, questions, and exercise boxes, case studies, and further readings and resources. Praise for Object Based Learning: This textbook is a rich and timely resource that weaves together important context, clear definitions of key concepts, theoretical insights, and ethical considerations with practical examples, exercises, and case studies to explore the place of objects and indeed museums in an increasingly digitised world and the value, the risks, and the opportunities of their close and embodied study. For students, educators, and practitioners or those just interested to know more about how we can understand the world and ourselves through material things, this book is an invaluable reference. And it's a good read. Dr Jennifer Blunden, Industry Fellow, Museums, University of Technology Sydney. Object Based Learning is an invaluable resource for anyone engaging with material culture. The textbook bridges theory and practice for object analysis in an accessible manner and guides readers through essential topics such as the history of collecting, colonial legacies, curatorial ethics, digital technologies, and audience engagement. The thoughtful structure supports both modular use and comprehensive engagement, with each chapter presenting rich case studies, reflective exercises, and critical questions that prompt deeper analysis and classroom discussion. For students and educators alike, this book offers a flexible and adaptable toolkit for learning and teaching with things. Dr Nuala Morse, Associate Professor in Museum Studies, University of Leicester. A must-read for anyone with an interest in teaching and learning in universities and museums. Delivered in an invitingly warm and conversational style, this important textbook provides a rigorous treatment of its subject: the relatively new pedagogy of object-based education for adult learners. Offering an excellent blend of contextual, theoretical, and practical information, and drawing on fascinating examples from UCL's museums and collections, what emerges is encompassing and illuminating, thoughtful and timely. Thomas Kador has achieved a rare thing: a volume both wide and deep in scope which remains accessible and engaging for all readers. Leonie Hannan, Reader in History, Queen's University Belfast. This is an invaluable resource for novice and expert alike, providing all the tools necessary to engage with objects in classrooms, exhibitions, and beyond. With accessible summaries of key concepts and theoretical debates, in addition to suggested further reading for every chapter, students from a wide range of backgrounds will be able to dive in and develop their skills and
