The Moral Status of Persons Gerhold K. Becker, 2000 The advances in molecular biology and genetics medicine and neurosciences in ethology and environmental studies have put the concept of the person firmly on the philosophical agenda Whereas earlier times seemed to have a clear understanding about the moral implications of personhood and its boundaries today there is little consensus on such matters Whether a patient in the last stages of Alzheimer's disease is still a person or whether a human embryo is already a person are highly contentious issues This book tackles the issue of personhood and its moral implications head on The thirteen essays are representative of the major strands in the current bioethical debate and offer new insights into humanity's moral standing its foundations and its implications for social interaction While most of the essays approach the issue by drawing on the rich intellectual tradition of the West others offer a cross cultural perspective and make available for ethical consideration the philosophical resources and the wisdom of the East The contributors to this book are highly recognized philosophers ethicists theologians and professionals in health care and medicine from East Asia China Japan Europe and North America The first part of the book probes the foundations of personhood Examining critically the main theories on personhood in contemporary philosophy the authors offer alternatives that better respond to contemporary challenges and their implications for bioethics The focus of the second part is firmly on the Confucian relational concept of the person and on the social constitution of personhood in traditional Japanese culture While the essays challenge the individualistic features of personhood in the Western tradition they lay the foundations for a richer concept that holds great promise for the resolution of moral dilemmas in modern medicine and health care The third part of the book enters into a dialogue with the Christian tradition and draws on its spiritual heritage in the search for answers to the contemporary challenges to human dignity and value Its focus is on the Catholic social thought and Lutheran theology The fourth part addresses the moral status of persons in view of specific issues such as the effects of brain injury gene therapy and human cloning on personhood It extends the scope of research beyond human beings and inquires also into the moral status of animals

Moral Status and Human Life James G. Dwyer, 2010-10-21 Are children of equal lesser or perhaps even greater moral importance than adults This work of applied moral philosophy develops a comprehensive account of how adults as moral agents ascribe moral status to beings ourselves and others and on the basis of that account identifies multiple criteria for having moral status It argues that proper application of those criteria should lead us to treat children as of greater moral importance than adults This conclusion presents a basis for critiquing existing social practices many of which implicitly presuppose that children occupy an inferior status and for suggesting how government policy law and social life might be different if it reflected an assumption that children are actually of superior status

Wagner-Egelhaaf,2019-01-29 Autobiographical writings have been a major cultural genre from antiquity to the present time General questions of the literary as e g the relation between literature and reality truth and fiction the dependency of author narrator and figure or issues of individual and cultural styles etc can be studied preeminently in the autobiographical genre Yet the tradition of life writing has in the course of literary history developed manifold types and forms Especially in the globalized age where the media and other technological cultural factors contribute to a rapid transformation of lifestyles autobiographical writing has maintained even enhanced its popularity and importance By conceiving autobiography in a wide sense that includes memoirs diaries self portraits and autofiction as well as media transformations of the genre this three volume handbook offers a comprehensive survey of theoretical approaches systematic aspects and historical developments in an international and interdisciplinary perspective While autobiography is usually considered to be a European tradition special emphasis is placed on the modes of self representation in non Western cultures and on inter and transcultural perspectives of the genre The individual contributions are closely interconnected by a system of cross references The handbook addresses scholars of cultural and literary studies students as well as non academic readers

Reconstructionist Confucianism Ruiping Fan,2010-03-11 Contrasting with conventional Neo Confucian attempts to recast the Confucian heritage in light of modern Western values this book offers a Reconstructionist Confucian project to reclaim Confucian resources to meet contemporary moral and public policy challenges Ruiping Fan argues that popular accounts of human goods and social justice within the dominant individualist culture of the West are too insubstantial to direct a life of virtue and a proper structure of society Instead he demonstrates that the moral insights of Confucian thought are precisely those needed to fill the moral vacuum developing in post communist China and to address similar problems in the West The book has a depth of reflection on the Confucian tradition through a comparative philosophical strategy and a breadth of contemporary issues addressed unrivaled by any other work on these topics It is the first in English to explore not only the endeavor to revive Confucianism in contemporary China but also brings such an endeavor to bear upon the important ethical social and political difficulties being faced in 21st century China The book should be of interest to any philosopher working in application of traditional Chinese philosophy to contemporary issues as well as any reader interested in comparative cultural and ethical studies Personhood and Health Care David C. Thomasma, David N.

Weisstub, Christian Hervé, 2013-04-17 PERSONHOOD AND HEALTH CARE This book arose as a result of a pre conference devoted to the topic held June 28 1999 in Paris France The pre conference preceded the Annual Congress of the International Academy of Law and Mental Health Other chapters were solicited after the conference in order to more completely explore the relation of personhood to health care The pre conference was held in honor of Yves Pelicier who led so many of our French colleagues in medicine philosophy and ethics as Christian Herve notes in his Tribute As health care is aimed at healing persons it is important to realize how difficult it is to construct a theory of personhood for health care and thus a theory of how healing in health care comes about or ought to occur The book is divided into four parts Concepts of the Person Theories of Personhood in Relation to Health Care and Bioethics Person and Identity and Personhood and His Relations Each section explores a critical arena in constructing the relation of personhood to health care Although no exploration of this nature can be exhaustive every effort was made to present both conflicting and complementary views of personhood from within similar and different philosophical and religious traditions PART ONE CONCEPTS OF THE PERSON Tracing the origins of the concept of person from antiquity through present day Jean Delemeau provides an historical sketch of the development of a wide range of meanings Behind the Silence Jing-Bao Nie, 2005 Behind the Silence is the first in depth work in any language to explore the diverse perspectives of mainland Chinese regarding induced abortion and fetal life in the context of the world's most ambitious and intrusive family planning program Through his investigation of public silence official standpoints forgotten controversies from the imperial era popular opinions women's personal stories doctors narratives and the problem of coerced abortion Nie Jing Bao brings to light a surprising range of beliefs concerning fetal life and the morality of abortion yet finds overall an acceptance of national population policies China's internal plurality the author argues must be taken seriously if the West is to open a fruitful cross cultural dialogue Visit our website for sample chapters Quasi Person Pnina Lifshitz-Aviram, 2024-02-09 This book delves into the controversial subject of late term abortions particularly those occurring after 24 weeks of gestation It emphasizes that the abortion debate is multifaceted involving ethical legal medical and philosophical aspects Different countries have diverse policies on abortion from strict prohibitions to more permissive approaches Recent legal developments in the United States exemplified by the Dobbs v Jackson Women's Health Organization case overturning Roe v Wade have stirred significant legal political and public upheaval surrounding abortion rights Advancements in medical technology have enabled early detection of fetal defects forcing expectant mothers to make complex decisions regarding continuing a pregnancy with potential health challenges for the child or opting for termination The book introduces the concept of viewing the fetus as a quasi person with the right to be born and enjoy good health especially after the 24th week of pregnancy It aims to strike a balance between women s autonomy and fetal rights considering advances in fetal therapy Employing a multidisciplinary approach drawing insights from law philosophy ethics medicine psychology and public policy the book seeks to reconcile the rights of women and fetuses It unequivocally supports protecting the right to life for viable fetuses justifying this stance through historical context advancements in fetal therapy and ethical considerations related to women s autonomy and fetal rights In summary this book provides a thorough examination of abortions performed after 24 weeks of gestation exploring the ethical legal medical and philosophical dimensions while advocating for the preservation of the right to life for viable fetuses Transcultural
