Seapower And Space From The Dawn Of The Mibile Age To Netcentric Warfare:

Seapower and Space Norman Friedman, 2000 Describes surveillance and targeting systems both offensive and defensive as they evolved in the U S and the old Soviet navies      Societal Impact of Spaceflight Steven J. Dick, Roger D. Launius, 2007 Since the dawn of spaceflight advocates of a robust space effort have argued that human activity beyond Earth makes a significant difference in everyday life Assertions abound about the impact of spaceflight on society and its relationship to the larger contours of human existence Fifty years after the Space Age began it is time to examine the effects of spaceflight on society in a historically rigorous way Has the Space Age indeed had a significant effect on society If so what are those influences What do we mean by an impact on society And what parts of society Conversely has society had any effect on spaceflight What would be different had there been no Space Age The purpose of this volume is to examine these and related questions through scholarly research making use especially of the tools of the historian and the broader social sciences and humanities Herein a stellar array of scholars does just that and arrives at sometimes surprising conclusions      Under the Nuclear Shadow Rebecca K.C. Hersman, Reja Younis, Bryce Farabaugh, Bethany Goldblum, Andrew Reddie, 2021-11-15 Improvements to strategic situational awareness SA the ability to characterize the operating environment detect and respond to threats and discern actual attacks from false alarms across the spectrum of conflict have long been assumed to reduce the risk of conflict and help manage crises more successfully when they occur However with the development of increasingly capable strategic SA related technology growing comingling of conventional and nuclear SA requirements and capabilities and the increasing risk of conventional conflict between nuclear armed adversaries this may no longer be the case The Project on Nuclear Issues PONI at the Center for Strategic and International Studies CSIS and the University of California Berkeley s Nuclear Policy Working Group undertook a two year study to examine the implications of emerging situational awareness technologies for managing crises between nuclear armed adversaries      The Mariner's Mirror Leonard George Carr Laughton, Roger Charles Anderson, William Gordon Perrin, 2000      Naval War College Review , 2013      Globalization and Maritime Power Sam J. Tangredi, 2002      Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 2000      Seapower and Space Norman Friedman, 1998-08 For decades navies have been major sponsors of space developments for the purposes of secure communications and precise navigation without satellite navigation a submarine based deterrent force would have been impossible and the accuracy of the Tomahawk cruise missile in the Gulf War was entirely dependent on such technology This book chronicles these developments describing the systems themselves and concluding with an analysis of future possibilities      Network Centric Warfare and Coalition Operations Paul T. Mitchell, 2009-02-05 This book argues that Network Centric Warfare NCW influences how developed militaries operate in the same fashion that an operating system influences the development of computer software It examines three inter related issues the overwhelming military power of the United States the growing influence of NCW on military thinking and the centrality of coalition operations in modern military endeavours Irrespective of terrorist threats and local insurgencies the present international structure is remarkably stable none of the major powers seeks to alter the system from its present liberal character as demonstrated by the lack of a military response to US military primacy This primacy privileges the American military doctrine and thus the importance of NCW which promises a future of rapid precise and highly efficient operations but also a future predicated on the digitization of the battle space Participation in future American led military endeavours will require coalition partners to be networked interoperability will therefore be a key consideration of a partner s strategic worth Network Centric Warfare and Coalition Operations will be of great interest to students of strategic studies international security US foreign policy and international relations in general Measures of Effectiveness for the Information-age Navy ,2002 Navy Transformation. Network Centric Warfare and FORCENet ,2004 Briefing charts from presentation on Sea Power 21 Navy Transformation in the 21st century Network Centric Warfare and FORCENet

Bibliografický Soupis české a slovenské psychologické-literatury ... Zprac.Zdeněk Záplata ,1967 Networking the Global Maritime Partnership ,2008 The modern day notion of a Global Maritime Partnership first introduced by then CNO Admiral Michael Mullen at the 2005 International Seapower Symposium as The 1000 Ship Navy and later enshrined in the new U S Maritime Strategy A Cooperative Strategy for 21st Century Seapower is rapidly gaining worldwide currency as many nations and navies seek to work together to combat global terrorism as well as a host of other issues in the maritime arena But neither networking nor global maritime partnerships are new concepts and understanding the history of naval coalition operations and of networking in the maritime environment can help nations and navies understand the challenges to fielding an effective global maritime partnership in the 21st Century Armed with this historical perspective coalitions can begin to devise effective solutions to these challenges One of the biggest challenges to instantiating an effective global maritime partnership is technical how do the navies of disparate nations that desire to operate together at sea obtain the requisite compatible C4ISR command control communications computers intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance systems that will enable them to truly network and make the global maritime partnership a reality Unless or until the technical challenges to networking navies at sea are addressed by the U S Navy and by likely coalition navies the dream of a global maritime partnership will never be achieved Abstract

Network Centric Warfare: Operational Application in the Land Dimension of Conflict ,2001 The military application of the network centric concept is framed by Network Centric Warfare NCW which is an emerging operational concept based on the stated vision of future warfare in Joint Vision 2020 In the Information Age does Network Centric Warfare concept provide a more effective means of achieving strategic ends in the land dimension of conflict than distributed maneuver Based on the post cold war environment of global complexity limited war and technological advancement NCW may be a better means of applying military force in the land dimension of conflict In the agrarian age classical warfare was executed in its highest form by Napoleon s pursuit of decisive battle In this age with detailed logistical planning and the evolution of the army corps

Napoleon moved to fight against his adversary His unique method of preparation with his directed telescope and the Officers' ordonnance allowed him to out think his opponent in time and space as evidenced by his victory at Jena Auerstadt 14 October 1806 In the industrial age Lieutenant General Grant conducted a premature version of operational art in the Vicksburg campaign The development of industrial age technology such as the railroad telegraph and steamship allowed Grant the freedom to fight to move By fighting to move on land and seas Grant was able to out maneuver and out think the confederate forces in Vicksburg in May 1863 In the information age information technology allows commercial companies to leverage a competitive advantage over other companies by making better decisions faster The efficiency of commercial companies increases because networked systems provide faster access to more information through the technological advancements of information technology The issue for military forces operating in the land dimension is the ability to leverage this advantage to gain effectiveness instead of efficiency

Some Principles of Network-Centric Warfare: A Look at How Network-Centric Warfare Applies to the Principles of War Thomas Slais, Naval War College (U.S.), 1999 The principles of war are one of the most important and enduring facets of operational art Network centric warfare enabled by technology of the information age is a new concept the U S is adopting in order to fight faster cheaper and better in the 21st century This analysis shows that network centric warfare applies to the principles of war specifically the principles of mass offensive unity of command and security With regard to mass the information sensor and engagement grids of network centric warfare will enable dispersed forces to mass effects by coordinating location identification and targeting information from sensors to rapidly employ long range precision fires using shared information from a common operational picture With respect to offensive network centric warfare will effectively allow us to dominate factor time and operate inside the enemy's decision cycle Thus it will enhance our ability to seize and retain the initiative and preserve our freedom of action As it applies to unity of command network centric warfare will aid tactical commanders armed with a clearly defined commander's intent from the operational level to maintain the situational awareness required to self synchronize and act on opportunities while maintaining unity of effort toward achieving the operational commander's objective Finally with regard to security network centric warfare will increase our ability to achieve battle space dominance through information superiority However we will be increasingly dependent on protecting our C4I systems to ensure that we can achieve our military objectives The tie that binds network centric warfare to the principles of war is that it will enable enhanced situational awareness which will improve our ability to abide by the principles in a more sufficient manner

Network-centric Warfare Norman Friedman, 2009 This study is a vital first step in a long overdue reassessment of the dramatic changes in the command and control of naval operations in the twentieth century Dr Friedman's work shows how fundamental communications networks and information systems were to commanders afloat and ashore in fighting the war at sea and that victory went to the possessor of the more comprehensive picture of the maritime battlespace The increasing complexity of the issues that navies faced in their continual struggle to exploit new developments is very thoroughly conveyed in a book whose author consistently demonstrates an understanding of both the theoretical science and the practical technology which underpinned that revolution Publisher's blurb      Net-Centric Warfare: Are We Ready to be Cyber-Warriors? ,1999 Joint Vision 2010 the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's template for future military operations identifies information superiority as the linchpin of the emerging operational concepts of Dominant Maneuver precision Engagement Focused Logistics and Full Dimensional protection While the technical challenges to realizing these concepts are acknowledged I contend the tasks required to successfully integrate the human and cultural side of Joint Vision 2010's information superiority are as daunting as any of the still unsolved technical hurdles Currently the human element of technology enabled warfare is not getting the attention it needs The military must begin to examine whether current training and doctrine are sufficient to prepare operational commanders for the Chairman's vision of the future      Special Report ,2012      Network-Centric Warfare and the Operational Concepts of War: A Synergistic Effect ,2000 The rapid development of information processing technology portends a change in the ways and means U S forces will conduct future warfare This potential revolution military affairs RMA termed Network Centric Warfare NCW promises to increase freedom of action at the strategic operational and tactical levels of war by allowing greater control of the operational factors of space time and force than has been previously possible The most significant benefit of conducting war in a network centric environment is enhanced battle space awareness This enhanced awareness will allow the operational commander to work inside the enemy's decision cycle better manage force disposition and tailor forces to specific engagements using precision maneuver and precision guided standoff munitions Smaller more effective and efficient forces will be able to accomplish a given objective and the pace of war will quicken as combat in a network centric environment becomes non linear in conduct marked by simultaneous massing of effects Network Centric Warfare will serve to compress the factor of time and expand the factor of space While it applies to all levels of war its greatest effect will be at the operational and tactical levels of war where NCW will become the way to match the right force to the best course of action While the synergistic effects of Network Centric Warfare are evident in nearly every aspect of armed conflict the true determinant of success will be the individual capabilities of the operational commander      Seapower Geoffrey Till,2009-03-06 This revised updated and expanded new edition of Geoffrey Till's acclaimed textbook provides an invaluable guide for anyone interested in the changing and crucial role of seapower in the twenty first century
