Twenty-First Century Seapower Peter Dutton, Robert Ross, Øystein Tunsjø, 2013-05-02 This book offers an assessment of the naval policies of emerging naval powers and the implications for maritime security relations and the global maritime order Since the end of the Cold War China Japan India and Russia have begun to challenge the status quo with the acquisition of advanced naval capabilities The emergence of rising naval powers is a cause for concern as the potential for great power instability is exacerbated by the multiple maritime territorial disputes among new and established naval powers This work explores the underlying sources of maritime ambition through an analysis of various historical cases of naval expansionism It analyses both the sources and dynamics of international naval competition and looks at the ways in which maritime stability and the widespread benefits of international commerce and maritime resource extraction can be sustained through the twenty first century This book will be of much interest to students of naval power Asian security and politics strategic studies security studies and IR in general

Asian Maritime Power in the 21st Century Vijay Sakhuja, 2011 Maritime power has been a key defining parameter of economic vitality and geostrategic power of nations This book explores how the first decade of the 21st century has witnessed the rise of China and India as confident economic powers pivoting on high growth rates exponential expansion of science technology and industrial growth

China, the United States, and 21st-Century Sea Power Andrew S. Erickson, Lyle J Goldstein, Nan Li, 2010-12-01 China's reaction to the United States new maritime strategy will significantly impact its success according to three Naval War College professors Based on the premise that preventing wars is as important as winning wars this new U S strategy they explain embodies a historic reassessment of the international system and how the United States can best pursue its interests in cooperation with other nations The authors contend that despite recent turbulence in U S China military relations substantial shared interests could enable extensive U S China maritime security cooperation as they attempt to reach an understanding of competitive coexistence But for professionals to structure cooperation they warn Washington and Beijing must create sufficient political and institutional space

Indian Naval Strategy in the Twenty-first Century James R. Holmes, Andrew C. Winner, Toshi Yoshihara, 2009-04-02 This is the first academic study of India's emerging maritime strategy and offers a systematic analysis of the interplay between Western military thought and Indian maritime traditions By a quirk of historical fate Europe embarked on its Age of Discovery just as the main Asian powers were renouncing the sea ushering in centuries of Western dominance In the 21st century however Asian states are once again resuming a naval focus with both China and India dedicating some of their new found wealth to building powerful navies and coast guards and drawing up maritime strategies to govern the use of these forces The United States like the British Empire before it is attempting to manage these rising sea powers while preserving its maritime primacy This book probes how India looks at the sea what kind of strategy and seagoing forces New Delhi may craft in the coming years and how Indian leaders may use these forces It examines the material dimension but its major premise is that navies represent a physical expression of a society's history philosophical traditions and culture This book then ventures a comprehensive appraisal of Indian maritime strategy This book will be of interest to students of sea power strategic studies Indian politics and Asian Studies in general James R Holmes is an Associate Professor of Strategy at the U S Naval War College and a former U S Navy surface warfare officer Toshi Yoshihara is an Associate Professor in the Strategy and Policy Department at the Naval War College Andrew C Winner is Professor in the Strategic Research Department at the U S Naval War College

China as a Twenty-First Century Naval Power Michael A McDevitt, 2020-10-15 Xi Jinping has made his ambitions for the People's Liberation Army PLA perfectly clear there is no mystery what he wants first that China should become a great maritime power and secondly that the PLA become a world class armed force by 2050 He wants this latter objective to be largely completed by 2035 China as a Twenty First Century Naval Power focuses on China's navy and how it is being transformed to satisfy the world class goal Beginning with an exploration of why China is seeking to become such a major maritime power author Michael McDevitt first explores the strategic rationale behind Xi's two objectives China's reliance on foreign trade and overseas interests such as China's Belt and Road strategy In turn this has created concerns within the senior levels of China's military about the vulnerability of its overseas interests and maritime life lines is a major theme McDevitt dubs this China's sea lane anxiety and traces how this has required the PLA Navy to evolve from a near seas focused navy to one that has global reach a blue water navy He details how quickly this transformation has taken place thanks to a patient step by step approach and abundant funding The more than 10 years of anti piracy patrols in the far reaches of the Indian Ocean has acted as a learning curve accelerator to blue water status McDevitt then explores the PLA Navy's role in the South China Sea and the Indian Ocean He provides a detailed assessment of what the PLAN will be expected to do if Beijing chooses to attack Taiwan potentially triggering combat with America's first responders in East Asia especially the U S Seventh Fleet and U S Fifth Air Force He conducts a close exploration of how the PLA Navy fits into China's campaign plan aimed at keeping reinforcing U S forces at arm's length what the Pentagon calls anti access and area denial A2 AD if war has broken out over Taiwan or because of attacks on U S allies and friends that live in the shadow of China McDevitt does not know how Xi defines world class but the evidence from the past 15 years of building a blue water force has already made the PLA Navy the second largest globally capable navy in the world This book concludes with a forecast of what Xi's vision of a world class navy might look like in the next fifteen years when the 2035 deadline is reached

Maritime Diplomacy in the 21st Century Christian Le Mièrre, 2014-04-24 This book aims to redefine maritime diplomacy for the modern era Maritime diplomacy encompasses a spectrum of activities from co operative measures such as port visits exercises and humanitarian assistance to persuasive deployment and coercion It is an activity no longer confined to just navies but in the modern era is pursued by coast guards civilian vessels and non state groups As states such as China and India develop they are increasingly using this most flexible form of soft and hard power Maritime Diplomacy in the 21st Century describes and analyses the concept of maritime diplomacy which has been largely neglected in academic literature The use of such diplomacy can be interesting not just for the parochial effects of any activity but because any event can reflect changes in the international order while acting as an excellent gauge for the existence and severity of international tension Further maritime diplomacy can act as a valve through which any tension can be released without resort to conflict Written in an accessible but authoritative style this book describes the continued use of coercion outside of war by navies while also situating it more clearly within the various roles and effects that maritime forces have in peacetime This book will be of much interest to students of seapower naval history strategic studies diplomacy and international relations
